MISSISSIPPI RIVER FLOOD WORST IN HISTORY OF LOWER VALLEY

Heroic Measures Are Being Taken To Save Victims

Thousands Are Marooned By Swirling Waters Of Mississippi

GOVERNOR ORDERS EVACUATION OF TOWN

Refugee Rescue Work Is Being Given First Attention Today

(International News Service)

With the death toll slowly mounting, extraordinary measures were taken today to save thousands of persons marooned by the swirling, turbid waters of the Mississippi river.

Never in history has the lower Mississippi valley, from Cairo to the gulf, suffered such a disastrous flood.

There are approximately 75 known dead in the area.

Thousands are homeless, millions of acres of fertile farm lands are under water. Damage will run into millions.

Reports to the Red Cross indicate that 75,000 persons need food, clothing and shelter. This number is expected to double within a few days. The Red Cross is seeking to raise a $5,000,000 relief fund.

The flood is expected to reach a peak within the next ten days in the lower Mississippi. Heroic efforts are being made to strengthen protecting levees in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

The governor has ordered the evacuation of 13,000 refugees in Greenville, Miss.

Conditions are improving in the southwest.

Orders Evacuation of Town.

GREENVILLE Miss., April 23—Evacuation of Greenville, center of the rich Mississippi delta, was ordered today by Governor Dennis Murphree.

The Mississippi floods have inundated Greenville to the extent of eight feet, with water still pouring over the protecting levee, and the governor ordered the 13,000 refugees removed at once.

They will be taken to higher places in a fleet of boats.

More than 1,500 refugees were taken from a levee surrounding Greenville early today and sent to Vicksburg for safety. The steamer

It is probable that the matter of the future time for church services during the summer will be determined during the coming week.

How The Mississippi Is Ravaging Whole Towns In South

Airplane photo of New Madrid, Mo., shows conditions typical in many towns in Mississippi Valley, with worst flood in history raging. Just after the picture was taken the levee in the foreground broke, pouring five additional feet of water into the stricken city, where hundreds are homeless and foodless.

Two Thousands Refugees Marooned On Levee Are Threatened With Death

(International News Service)

HELENA, Ark., April 23.—Marooned on a crumbling levee, two and a half feet wide, doomed to sure death if not rescued within 12 hours, 2,000 refugees were frantically screaming for help at Knowlton's Landing, 50 miles south of here, as raging waters of the Mississippi river today continued to lash away inches of the levee at a time.

Comes for Aid

Such was the critical condition described by R. P. Beith, farmer, who came 50 miles in his motorboat last night to Helena river officials for immediate aid.

The steamer Wabash, the only large boat available for rescue work at the present, left the Landing last night with 750 of the refugees—all she could carry—leaving 2,000 persons behind, said Beith.

The Wabash had not arrived here this morning, but was en route from Knowlton's Landing with a load of refugees, according to a radio report received from her.

Beith described the sinking of the government motor launch Pelican, in which 19 persons were drowned. Only two members of the crew were saved and the rest went to the bottom of the river, along with a load of refugees, according to Beith.

Unseasonable Cold Wave To Continue, Weather Forecast

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 23. — Gripped in a wave of unseasonable cold, Western Pennsylvania shivered today at the announcement of Federal forecasters that no relief is in sight over the week-end.

The cold wave, which in some sections was accompanied by snow flurries, was due to a high pressure area in Northern Canada, forecasters said. Some relief is in sight within twenty-four hours, the report said, but no appreciable rise in temperature will be noted until Monday.

Frost Damages County Orchards

J. W. Cummings Says That Weather Last Night Hit Orchards Hard

TEMPERATURE AS LOW AS 22 DEGREES

J. W. Cummings, owner of a large peach and apple orchard in the New Wilmington district today reported that the heavy frost of last night had caused heavy damage.

According to Mr. Cummings who grows peaches and apples, a large number of early apples were killed and practically all the peach buds which had opened are dead.

Cummings states that the frost was heavy and the thermometer pointed to 22 above zero.

Carl Hileman, also an orchardist of the New Wilmington section, asked concerning the damage by frost said he had not yet taken notice of any damage by frost.

He said the frost was heavy but instead of sun coming out early today it remained cloudy which helped. Hileman intends to inspect his orchard to find out definitely if damage was caused.

It is quite likely that here after this coming Sunday the time of services will be run on Daylight Savings Time.

Painted Skeleton Warns Motorists To Exercise Care

W. S. Culbertson of East Washington street, a pioneer autoist of this city, is the originator of a novel warning design for the back end of his car.

On the rubber oil cloth which covers the spare tire he has painted a human skeleton. At the upper left hand corner the word "stop," at the upper right hand corner the word "danger." At the left side of the skeleton are the words, "Prepare to Meet thy God," while in the lower right hand corner is a little cemetery, with one tombstone standing out in bold relief and bearing the words, "He did not stop."

The painting was executed by Harry Amberson, the well known artist. It is probable that there is not another warning sign like it in the world and it attracts plenty of attention.

Large Crowd Hears State Officials Tell Of Corn Borer War

State Treasurer Lewis And Dr. Jordan Stir Up Interest Of City- County Audience

DEAN McDOWELL TELLS OF EFFORTS

Necessity Of Giving No Quarter In Battle On Pest Is Strongly Emphasized

Approximately 1,200 people were in attendance in the Scottish Rite Cathedral Friday night when Lawrence county held its corn borer extermination meeting. There may have been 50 per cent of them farmers, 50 per cent city folks, the percentage may have been 60-40 or 70-30, but the crowd was 100 per cent interested in the extermination of a pest.

The meeting was similar to those held in other counties in the past week, but in point of numbers there was no comparison, for the Lawrence county meeting was just about three times as large as any held in surrounding counties. This may have been occasioned by the fact that Dr. C. G. Jordan is a Lawrence county man, or it may have been because State Treasurer Samuel Lewis was present. Probably it was because Lawrence county people are interested in exterminating the corn borer and displaying their usual interest, came in crowds.

Three Speakers

Three speakers were on the program, Dean McDowell of State College, State Treasurer Lewis and Dr. Jordan, state secretary of agriculture, and while all of them touched upon the corn borer, each of them had an address that was different in the main.

Fred L. Rentz, president of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, opened the meeting, after which

Error Causes Confusion In Judge Situation

Will Need Opinion Of Attorney General To Settle, Is Belief

LENGTH OF TERM MAY BE AFFECTED

Since the announcement made yesterday that a discrepancy existed in the bill providing for an additional judge in Lawrence county, there has been considerable comment among attorneys and laymen as to what it will mean.

The concensus of opinion seems to be that there is no doubt as to the authority of Governor John S. Fisher to appoint a new judge. This is covered in section four of the act. The doubt seems to be what the length of the term of the newly elected judge will be, and what effect it will have as to who shall be president judge.

If the new judge is elected under the terms of the act, he would serve a period of time which would end ten years from the first Monday in January, 1922. This would bring the expiration of his term in January, 1932, when another judge would be elected. Under the law, the judge whose term expires first is the president judge.

Nothing will be settled definitely however, until an opinion is secured from the attorney-general's department in Harrisburg. This may have the effect of slowing up the appointment of a judge to fill the vacancy now existing DETROIT, April 23—More than 50 employes were injured and 10 others unaccounted for today in a series of explosions at the Briggs Manufacturing Company plant.

Woman's Club In Charge Of Arbor Day Programs At Schools

Ceremonies Are Taken Part In By Pupils Of Various Schools

Splendid exercises were held yesterday at the eight schools receiving trees from The Woman's Club in celebration of Arbor Day.

Due to the inclement weather most of the exercises were held inside with the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades participating in songs, speeches and dances.

At the West Side school the trees were dedicated to Mrs. I. B. Griffith and Miss Belle Braham, two pioneer residents of that section; Miss Elizabeth Treser, a former teacher recently deceased; and Prof. M. J. Miller, former principal.

The Lawrence School was greatly honored by having as their presentation speaker, Mrs. David Dickey, a charter member of The Woman's Club, and a woman, who, though well up in years, is always vitally interested in civic affairs. She made a very clear and forceful speech.

At the Pollock school Mrs. H. M. Kirk presented the trees and dedicated them to Mrs. John B. Hamme, State President of Pennsylvania Women's Clubs. A marker will be put on these later.

The following women served at the various schools:

Rose Avenue—Mrs. B. M. Berger. Lincoln and Garfield—Mrs. D. Duff Scott. Mahoning—Mrs. David Ritchie. Thaddeus Stevens—Mrs. De Lace Cole. W. N. Aiken—Mrs. W. H. Hanger.

The Rose Avenue School received 18 trees—the most due to it being a new school without any trees. Each class is to take care of a tree and after the trees were planted, each class danced around its own tree. Later the classes will name their trees

The dandelion and violet were talking together today, and I listened in to the flower words, to hear what they had to say. Said the violet as he drooped his head and brushed the snow from his eyes, it may be Spring, but you'd never know, by taking a look at the skies. The dandelion leaned back his head and laughed a derisive snort, said he buck up, and put on a grin, a fellow must be a sport. Of course its Spring though the sky is dark, and the snow is coming in flocks, and instead of linens and sheer silk things, a fellow should have wool socks, but the snow will pass in a little while, and the sky will be blue not gray, so stiffen your chin with a healthy grin, its cold thirty six today.

Set Stage For Big Test Case In Fee System

Keystone Motor Club To Carry Test Case Before Courts —Expect Fight

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Grooming for a legal battle the outcome of which it is expected will determine the fate of the fee system for Pennsylvania justices of the peace, aldermen and burgesses, the Keystone Motor Club will take the issue to the courts in a test case, it became certain here today.

Charles H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, affiliated with the Keystone Club, announced that his organization is preparing a test case which his organization hopes will administer the death blow to the fee system, and thus render the local offices less remunerative.

Allegheny County Controller Charles McGovern announced he is making a study of a decision rendered by Chief Justice William Howard Taft recently, in which Justice Taft, ruling on an appeal from an Ohio court, held that the fee system was in certain respects a violation of constitutional right of trial by due process of law.

The fight here is believed to be aimed particularly at alleged practices of rural squires in assessing fines on motorists for minor traffic infractions.

Druggists Wives To Aid In Work Of Convention

Meet Friday And Organize To Assist In Entertaining Delegates

Wives of the druggists of Lawrence county met in the Y. W. C. A. Friday afternoon for the purpose of organizing that they may assist in the entertaining of the hundreds of druggists that are meeting in New Castle on May 19 for the convention of the Western Pennsylvania Druggists Association.

Mrs. J. M. Rice was chosen as president of the temporary organization and several committees are to be appointed.

The wives of the druggists volunteered their services to assist in the entertainment of delegates so as to leave the time of their husbands to take up other matters connected with the convention to be held here next month.

Over a thousand delegates and their wives are expected to attend the convention from all parts of Western Pennsylvania so that the task of entertaining will not be so very easily accomplished.

the crowd sang one stanza of America, directed by "Senator" Billy Williams, with Miss Lillian Sarver at the piano. Rev. H. C. Weaver, pastor of the First M. E. church, offered the invocation. Mr. Rentz then introduced A. Harry Fullerton, supervisor of the corn borer work here, as the chairman of the evening.

Tell of Corn Borer

After a short introductory address Mr. Fullerton introduced County Farm Agent McCulloch, who in turn introduced his friend, Dean M. S. McDowell of State College. The dean told of the work of State College, spoke of the work being done to eradicate the corn borer and urged the Lawrence county men and women to co-operate in this effort.

Dr. C. G. Jordan was introduced by Mr. Fullerton, and no Lawrence county citizen needs to be told what kind of an address the Baron of Volant made. It had a lot of punch to it, a lot of corn borer information in it, and plenty of laughs. It takes a peculiar combination to make a preacher a secretary of agriculture, but Governor John S. Fisher seems to have made a success of it in Pennsylvania.

Lewis Speaks

State Treasurer Samuel Lewis was the last speaker on the program and was introduced by Fred L. Rentz. Mr. Lewis admitted that he knew little about the corn borer, but he did bring a lot of interesting facts concerning the state finances.

His address was in the nature of a plea for less bond issues and more pay-as-you-go policies. A refutation of the oft-repeated statement that Governor Gifford Pinchot had saved the state a lot of money. On the contrary, Mr. Lewis said that Governor Pinchot had contracted for roads up to the very limit of the state's finances and that Governor Fisher would be busy building roads in which he had had no part in the planning.

Before the conclusion of the meeting the men on the stage were introduced. This group consisted of various public officials and business and industrial men of the city.

Dr. Jordan should be proud of the meeting last night, and is. It was a demonstration of the regard in which he is held in his home county and a very evident display of the interest Lawrence county men and women have in eradicating the corn borer.

EVERETT BOAK CAUGHT UNDER UPSET TRACTOR

Youth Is Injured In Accident This Morning—Has Close Call

Everett Boak, 21 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Audry Boak of New Castle R. D. No. 5, received two severe gashes on his leg at 10:30 today when the tractor on which he was riding upset, pinning him beneath it.

His mother, the only one around at the time, heard her son calling for help and going to the scene of the accident found Everett pinned under the tractor, the seat on his leg. Mrs. Boak at once summoned neighbors who found it very difficult to get the young man out, it being necessary to prop the machine up with boards while they dug the dirt out from around the victim who was conscious directed the workers on the best way to extract him.

A doctor was summoned from New Castle, and it was found that there were two bad cuts on the young man's leg, one on the calf which was the severest, and another above the knee. These were dressed to the comfort of the boy.

Everett explained the accident in the following words, "the clutch of the tractor was tight and I thought I would fix it. After I had completed what work I thought it needed, I mounted the machine and started it. Before I could get it stopped it had run a long ways in front of the house at a great speed and headed for a bank where it ran into a tree and upset. I could not get off in time, and the seat of the machine caught my leg. The half hour I was under it sure did seem like a long time."

and bigger explosion, all employes had sufficient time to escape".

An entire section of the plant, built five years ago over an area of almost three acres, apparently was doomed as firemen from all the city stations conducted a losing battle at 11 o'clock. The damage was variously estimated from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Worst Fire in Years

Four alarms were turned in in rapid succession, placing most of the central district fire apparatus at the plant. Huge throngs of spectators were augmented by thousands of the factory workers.

Firemen described the fire as the worst in years.

Twenty firemen narrowly escaped death when one of the explosions caused a wall of the plant to cave in.

The Briggs Manufacturing Company makes bodies for a number of leading automobile companies.

Two hundred men were working in the building when the explosion occurred.

Approximately 50 injured were rescued from the burning building.

Girl Is Missing; Also Mother's Money

According to the report made to the police this morning, Marie Pavia, aged 18, of 411 Duquesne street, has been missing since Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, when she left home presumably for her work at the Buckeye plant.

Thirty dollars of her mother's money is also missing, according to the report. When she left home, she was dressed in a black and white hat, blue slicker, wine colored dress. She has dark colored curly hair.

HEROIC MEASURES ARE BEING TAKEN TO SAVE VICTIMS

Reports from outlying sections today indicated that at least 30 negroes were drowned when the levee broke near Scott on Wednesday. Hundreds of houses were swept away on the plantations and a dozen towns flooded from the break.

National Guard in Charge.

Maj. Paxton of the Mississippi National guard, is in charge of the relief work. Motorboats are in Greenville to save lives, officials said.

Sanitary conditions were bad today in Greenville following the failure of the water system yesterday. River water is being used for drinking purposes.

Several boats, small ones, have been capsized and lost in the eastern section of the city, where the current in the streets is 25 miles an hour.

Second story houses were in demand today. Every available one was filled with refugees.

Workmen were making every effort to get the city's waterworks back in operation to restore sanitary conditions. Business is at a standstill.

BOSTON, April 23.—One thousand units of typhoid vaccine for Mississippi river flood sufferers was turned over to the Metropolitan chapter of the American Red Cross by the state health department today.

The vaccine was turned over to the Red Cross by the health department by direction of Governor Alvan T. Fuller.

Firemen Respond To Two Alarms

Both Calls This Morning Come From Same District Of City

City firemen were called to answer two alarms in the same district this morning. Losses were sustained in each instance.

The first of the alarms was received from Box 12 at 8:45 a. m. It called the firemen to the home of R. J. Caldwell, 219 West Falls street. The fire started from some unknown cause among some Christmas decorations stored on a shelf of a cupboard. A loss of approximately $100 was sustained to the building and its contents.

A second alarm was received from the same box at 10:40 a. m. Sparks from the chimney set on fire the shingle roof of the property of Harry Rosenbloom at 214 West Grant street. The loss was about $50.

SNYDER-GRAY MURDER TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

done late yesterday—court was adjourned until Monday when the lawyers will outline their cases and the taking of testimony will commence.

Counsel for both defendants conferred with them today. The final plans were made for the struggle to save them from the chair—a struggle which will recall the hectic court scenes of the Thaw case and the Hall-Mill murder trial.

But the present case will present a new and unique angle. For, while the defendants were accused and indicted jointly and will be tried together, the two groups of lawyers defending them plan separate lines of defense.

Shifting Of Blame.

There will be a shifting of blame, it is believed, despite Gray's statement Thursday that he did not want to accuse Mrs. Snyder of responsibility.

Dana Wallace and Edgar F. Hazleton, for Mrs. Snyder, and Samuel J. Miller and William J. Millard, for Gray, declared after court was adjourned that they were "delighted with the jury," adding that they feel sure that a fair and honest verdict would be returned. Prosecuting Attorney Newcombe expressed similar sentiments.

There is no way to estimate the length of time the trial will take. Court estimates vary from one week to four. It is known that both defendants will introduce many character witnesses, and these will consume much time.

Newcombe will open for the people, and throughout the trial he will be assisted by James Conroy, Peter Daly and Albert Froessel, assistant district attorneys. Hazelton will open the defense for Mrs. Snyder and will examine her witnesses. Wallace will make the summation for her and cross-examine the state's witnesses. Millard is expected to open for Gray and do the cross-examination. Miller probably will examine Gray's witnesses and make the summation for his client. The plans of Gray's lawyers are not yet definite.

The jury was excused until Monday after having been admonished not to discuss the case with anyone, not to read the newspapers and not to "suffer anyone to talk about the case." Beginning Monday night, they will be locked up every night.

MISSISSIPPI FLOODS

THE Father of Waters is often a stepfather to those who live along its banks. The Mississippi floods which are damaging millions of acres and driving thousands from their homes are perhaps not the worst in history; but they are bad enough.

The lower reaches of the river have always been a menace and probably always will be.

The reason is, of course, that this great stream, draining an immense territory, has to be confined within comparatively narrow boundaries by artificial barriers. The levee system is the only means of saving the low-lying lands from overflow. In ordinary seasons it works fairly well. Under unusually heavy pressure it is in constant danger of breaking down. Great sums of money have been expended upon it; greater still will doubtless have to be.

Until within the last half century most of the work upon the levees was done by the states affected. The federal government was more concerned with keeping the river open to navigation. The Mississippi River Commission now has an appropriation from congress which ought to be adequate. But it is difficult to compute the exact cost of embankments so stout that no flood could overwhelm them. That this has not yet been accomplished is apparent. Heavy rains, if they continue long enough, can destroy almost any work of man. Though the menace of the floods may be diminished as the years go by, it would be rash to say it can be completely eliminated.

The lands now flooded will never, it is safe to say, be abandoned. In regions frequently visited by earthquakes the population returns as soon as the immediate danger is over. Great crops are produced in the Mississippi valley, and the peril of flood will not prevent their cultivation.

In the present emergency the call for help will be heeded by the whole country. That invaluable organization, the National Red Cross, will see that the necessary funds are obtained and wisely spent.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW'S GOSPEL OF COMMON SENSE

CHAUNCEY DEPEW, on the eve on his ninety-third birthday, which occurs today gave out one of his characteristic interviews, and it proves that while he is not quite as physically active as he was some years ago, his brain is as keen and as clear as ever, and his interest in life undiminished.

He goes from one subject to another with a mental alertness which might be envied by men many years his junior. He has settled a number of things to his own satisfaction observes the Philadelphia Inquirer.

For instance, he does not smoke; he is not on the water wagon, but he is sparing and very careful of what he drinks; he says the times are not as corrupt as some of the orators would have us think; he believes anyone may have serenity of soul if he wants it enough; he has a good opinion of Al Smith, but a better one of Calvin Coolidge, for whom he expects to vote and of whose re-election he is certain, and he likes as much as ever to look across the table at a beautiful woman, provided the woman has a good disposition.

But best of all is the rule which he has adopted for creating serenity of soul. He long ago discovered that the spirit in which you sit down to dinner has much to do with your spirit when you get up from the table. "I will not," he declares, "discuss disagreeable things at the table—like murders, or sudden death or divorce, or plague spots, or any of the little brothers of these ills—I just won't discuss them. I want peace and beauty and soul radiance." He takes no stock in the foolish pretense of shutting out religion from the scheme of things, but feels that his faith is more important to him now than it has been at any time in his long life.

One must admire the philosophy and good sense and the tranquillity with which this sage of ninety-three looks out upon the world. He has been a remarkable man with an unusual career to his credit. His great gift has been his tolerant attitude toward others, his sunny disposition and his determination to be serene in the face of difficulties.

If it is essential for every woman to learn to drive an automobile, is it not also essential that she learn to wash it?

New Castle does not have enough policemen to police this city properly. Some sections are not policed at all and in many places this would not be stood for. Mayor Dunlap and others who know police work are more competent to judge police conditions than some tight wad who is afraid a few more policemen will make him pay a few cents more taxes.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen—One Pitt Panther.

It was in a local photograph studio. "I don't like this photo at all" yelled the customer. I look like a monkey." The photographer is a modest person so we said it for him. "You should have thought of that before you had them taken," we protested in behalf of the photographer. We are in bad with that bird now.

We have noticed in reading the newspapers that students in colleges who aspire to positions on the athletic teams are forbidden to smoke cigarettes for a period previous to the contests. And this is not because it will make their breaths hard or cause inconvenience to those near them. Those who know why gives these orders to the boys and girls on the contest teams.

The Television device will be bard on husbands who 'phone home from the "office" at 10 p. m.

We heard a bird from Los Angeles say to a reporter in Florida that Miami was the playground of the world. It is about time for that gent to be back in Los Angeles and we have been watching the news from there to see if he has been lynched yet by a frantic mob.

During the next ten days or so the Hints and Dints man will be out of the city. For about six days he will be in New York attending the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association to be held in the Waldorf Astoria. A week from today he will be in Washington, D. C., attending the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for three or four days. We will attempt to write some for this column while on this trip. It may be that it will not be very successful but we are going to try it.

The great baseball scandals of the past winter have not hurt the game any it seems. The crowds so far have been so big that several clubs are figuring on enlarging their grounds. Rotten stuff helps other things than the soil it seems.

The most cruel and horrible murderers are the ones who confess the most readily when caught and trapped with the marks on them. This seems strange when we consider the awful nerve it must take to commit such crimes.

Now comes a local grouch with the declaration that nowadays, for every woman who wants to learn to cook there are about a thousand women who want to learn to smoke.

A flock of Mexican bandits stopped a train carrying about one hundred passengers. They doused the train with gasolene and then shot the helpless passengers as they tried to escape from the burning coaches. We said not long ago after a visit to Mexico that we want to see the United States in just one more war and that one to clean up the dogos in Mexico. After reading the above maybe you can think we are justified in being a bit rough in our thoughts.

Spring will not be here for some men until they can go without their vests. Some women folks insist on their men wearing vests during the fresh egg eating season in the spring because it saves the washing of shirts. You have perhaps noticed egg on vest fronts yourself.

Fumes from a disinfectant killed a former Pittsburgh policeman. In the old days a policeman did not have to go around among the scandalous odors of still and other things like the modern hootch-hunting cop has to. It takes a strong constitution to be a modern cop.

A woman juror is accused of putting the Ford libel suit on the bum and putting a stop to it. That's right. Blame it on the woman!

Let's give New Castle a touch of University Life.

When a chain store locates in a city a most exhaustive survey is made before the venture is started. A chain store never locates in a city that does not look to have a good future. We are not boosting chain stores particularly, but we are not trying to fool ourselves either and if a chain newspaper ever tries to put us out of business it will know it has been in a scrap.

Women are braver than men. For instance, did you ever see a man who had the nerve to drive from the back seat while Friend Wify is operating the car?

Such Is Fate

A North Hill woman told the clerk in a store that she wanted to buy a cheap prize for her bridge party. The clerk picked out the cheapest prize he had and the woman took it. The clerk's mother won the prize.

There comes a time in the lives of all men when they feel like kicking out of the traces of convention and running around in a flannel shirt and old trousers, sporting a week's growth of beard. And that's what I intend to do when I get my vacation this summer. Really, its a luxury to let one's whiskers grow occasionally. As the little boy said who was hitting himself on the head with the hammer: "I am doing this because it feels so nice when I stop."

Good Gosh! Shingles Are Getting Shorter

Shorter and shinier for shingle hair, is the latest fashion order from Paris, permitting no "Londulation permanente," which is French for permanent wave. The same day London fashion czars declare for hats with no brim, but the brim is all forward as the back of the hat must conform to the lines of head and neck. All of which makes it difficult for long-haired women to get ready-made millinery.

It must be very encouraging to insist for 30 or 40 years on an open door in China and then have to come out through the transom, so to speak.

After men had failed a woman climbed a tree and rescued a cat. This is held up as a great feat for a woman to do, but considering the feline dispositions that has been ascribed to women, climbing trees ought to be as natural as purring.

The city of Detroit is raising $1,000,000 to boost itself to the rest of the world. Now we thought that Detroit was advertised well enough but there seems to be a lot of work to do yet. No one will be asked to contribute any money to the fund, but everyone will be given an opportunity to invest in Detroit's growth and future. Isn't that a nice way of working it to get money from the unsuspecting.

The reason autos have to go so fast now in the streets is to get to the parking places before they are all gone.

It has been learned since the revolution that only six cities in China have moving pictures. You can't blame them for wanting a revolution and they ought to keep it up until every city has its own movies.

Now we will have to have that Ford trial all over again. The worst part of it is that we will have to read a lot more about Jim Reed. He seems to be the whole Ford trial just as he is the whole Democratic U. S. Senate. Reed and Borah just about run things in Washington — or more correctly speaking—try to.

Austria has banned moving pictures that show pictures of bull fights. Now all Austria has to do to be a real outstanding progressive nation is to bar one or two movie actors or actresses for moral turpitude and its fame will be complete.

The wet and dry question has been set aside here for a time by mutual consent so it seems, while the population divides itself for the summer, if not longer, on daylight savings time. Our people can divide so easily and scrap so long and earnestly over trivial things that it is impossible to get them together on matters that are really worth while.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 23. —Crossing from ocean to ocean you see interesting men and things, among others an old-fashioned railroad conductor on the Santa Fe and an old-fashioned Christian in Los Angeles.

The conductor is W. D. Vanbergen, as able, active and keen a railroad man as ever protected a fast express train.

"Railroading" more than fifty years, he talks of passenger cars that were forty feet long, had seats that hit you in the middle of the back, windows with four small panes of glass in each, lighted with candles.

"Retire?" Certainly not. Railroading is more interesting than retirement.

The old-fashioned Los Angeles Christian has painted on the back of his Ford touring car top, in white letters, a foot high, "Tell the world Jesus saves. "He drives slowly about the street, and some undoubtedly repent.

E. F. Hutton's Los Angeles branches tell you that conforting information was needed Thursday by bears that have ignored good advice printed in this column for months past. They had a little bear panic of their own, while stocks went up.

General Motors and Atchison, well managed companies, went to "new high prices for all time." And some dejected bear covered 10,400 shares of General Motors, in one transaction of nearly $2,000,000.

Don't gamble, for you will surely lose. And especially, don't "sell short." That's like running in front of an express train. In England, where you can borrow money cheaper than here, generally speaking, the bank rate is cut from 5 to 4½. And here money will be much cheaper. Its 'no time to be a bear, best news of all, cotton went climbing; but, unfortunately drowning out vast cotton areas.

Paul Kelly, movie actor in a small way, is held for murder. The usual roar about moving picture immorality will follow. It would be better to roar about the Snyder case, with the husband in the case brained with a sashweight as he slept.

Paul Kelly of the movies, killed his man, husband of the lady he admired, in a fist fight, and probably had no intentions of killing.

It is summer weather out here, with a nice breeze from the Pacific ocean: potato plants standing two feet high in front of many little bungalows, active building everywhere, fruit trees heavily loaded, and every citizen ready to prove that "California has only started."

One hundred and fifty thousand years ago your ancestors struggled with levers made of a tree to turn over the halfdevoured carcass of a mammoth. No possibility of dragging it home; it was eaten on the spot. On April 28, the Volunteer Ore Co., Palmer, Mich., will explode at one time 50,000 pounds of dynamite, and by that single blow, blast out 250,000 tons of iron ore. The powerful man with his muscle can lift 500 pounds, straining and groaning. The thinking man, pressing and electric button, can lift 500,000,000 pounds. That is progress.

In Day's News

Chauncey M. Depew's personal recollections of the great men of America probably extend further back than those of any other person now living. Mr. Depew, who is 93 years old today, entered public life nearly three-quarters of a century ago, and for many years he himself was numbered among the most widely known men in America. The advancing years have caused his retirement from public life, though he still takes an active interest in business. For 12 years Mr. Depew sat in the United States senate and for a much longer period he was included among the national leaders of the Republican party. The genial senator was a conspicuous figure at many Republican national conventions. At the convention of 1888 his name was put in nomination for the presidency. Mr. Depew was born at Peekskill, N. Y., and began his career as a lawyer.

THE ENDLESS RACE

Representative Butler, chairman of the House and Naval Affairs Committee recently asserted that the United States ought to build practically a new navy to cost more than $400,000,000.

We are lagging steadily behind other nations and from being along toward the front we have dropped to fourth place.

This he holds to be a great danger.

Just where the competing nations in armament are to stop he does not suggest.

About the only way we can be made to stop it is for one nation that is undoubtedly strong to cease competing with the others.

The danger in this course is that the others will take advantage of

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE FIVE-YEAR OLD

Here's a busy little thing,
Tongue forever on the swing,
Feet forever on the go,
Eyes forever mirth aglow.
Why should age with all its pride
Be so smug and satisfied?
Here's a little child of four
Who has more of strength, and more
Joyous thoughts from day to day
Than the wisest head of gray.

Here she is awake at dawn
With the robins on the lawn
Starting in again to play
In her madcap, roguish way.
While the grown-up lies and sighs
Blind to sparkling, sunny skies;
Deaf to laughter, weary still,
Like a crippled man or ill.
Having naught of joy to say
As a welcome to the day.

Should she get that grown-up out
Then those little legs so stout
Soon would run him out of breath
And might even cause his death.
He would wither in an hour
Underneath her wealth of power.
If he would he couldn't do
All the things she'd want him to
Just one day with her, and he
Would a worn-out warrior be.

Rich he thinks himself, but oh,
Are his eyes with mirth aglow?
Does he see, where'er they turn
Something new he wants to learn?
Do his joys so fast succeed
That his days are short indeed?
Does he find so much of grace
In his trinkets commonplace?
No, the richest soul alive
Is a little child of five.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SOMETHING FOR THE SOUL

Italians—rich, poor, educated, illiterate, young, old, immigrants and American born, had united in pleas to the great Caruso to sing at the open-air Garibaldi celebration to be held in Washington Square, New York City, some years ago. And Caruso had come. That famous Square, vibrating with traditions of celebrated men and women, was clothed in dusk. A summer breeze in the treetops was ready to steal the accompaniments from the violins. Thousands had come on foot for miles; on subways; by cars, bus, and the elevateds.

While they crowded around the Garibaldi statue where he was to sing, the setting sun wrapped a tapestried shawl of myriad colors about the throng. Caruso, inspired by his countrymen, was very generous that night. Mothers holding babes swayed gently to the melodies. Men in overalls and white aprons stood fixed as the statue itself. Children, birds, all life itself seemed hushed, listening to the great voice singing its native tongue. And then it was "Oh Sole Mio" that came to its last throbbing note. And suddenly an Italian boy of six, his two big eyes twin moons of despair, lurched through the crowd and flung himself, prostrate, at the feet of the great one, his little body shaken with sobs— a loud wail shattering the dusk. Half in agony the lad's embarrassed mother explained to those nearest:

"With Henri it is always like that—the museec it is for him the soul. He loves it like that . . ."

Of the soul hunger of the children? Who has given this a thought? One answers, "The Sunday Schools"; another reminds of the story-telling hours in department stores and on the radios. But, of the things out of reach? Just here is where this story really begins.

It took a great business establishment in Los Angeles to launch a commodity that was bound to satisfy the soul-hunger of one hundred children in that community. Very quietly, very methodically, the Southern California Music Company, not long ago, determined on a great adventure. When all was ready the co-operation of school teachers was sought—and found.

Then went forth the word that summer vacation classes in Free Piano Lessons would be given to children who, first, had no other opportunity for music study; second, who had no piano in the home; third, whose parents could not afford to provide music lessons, fourth, to those who passed elementary psychological test.

Ninety-two such children were chosen. They were tall children, little runty kids, blondes, brunettes, red-headed, crippled, Japanese, German, Polish, Russian, Austrian, American—children of the American melting pot. Not alone did they snap at the opportunity for the 20 Free lessons offered under the eminently successful and well-known instructor, Emma M. Bartlett, who guided them through the fascinating "Melody Way" Method, but they remained long enough and practiced well enough so that at the close of the Course (a matter of two months) everyone of the 92 children, not one of whom had ever had any kind of a piano instruction before, appeared in solo, duet, sextette, octette or accompaniment numbers on the final day when the triumphant Recital was given in Chickering Hall. Have they stopped their music lessons? Not they! A recent survey shows many of the families are making herculean sacrifices so the "kids" may continue their music. It also shows that some remarkable talent has come from the troup. Is it possible that another Lhevinne, another Paderewski, another Schnitzer, another Mirovitch, may come from the class?

The Human Soul also needs food.

CHARLES B DRISCOLL

MY TOWNS—CLEVELAND

Cleveland is the city with the dirty old Union Station. It is the city where, adjoining the Public Square, there is arising a new 52-story, imposing Union Station.

Cleveland has good trolley cars, the best-looking buses in the world, and Peter Witt, fighting councilman, of and for the people. Cleveland, with its traffic cops who keep you from crossing empty streets because the light is the wrong color for crossing. Cleveland, where Richard Laukhuff sells you books if he likes you, and tells you where to go to buy books if you make the fatal error of asking him for a volume of Zane Gray or Harold Bell Wright.

Cleveland is one of my favorite cities.

All my life I had been hearing about Cleveland, just as I have always heard about New Orleans. But I finally went to live and work in Cleveland. Even yet, I have not seen New Orleans, but I suspect that it is just about opposite of Cleveland in most things, and yet just as lovable as Cleveland. I think of Cleveland and New Orleans as the two American cities typifying the North and the South.

During the two years I lived in Cleveland, I found more interesting people than I have ever found in any other city in the same length of time. People with ideas! Cleveland swarms with them.

Some day I believe it will be discovered that the idea was invented in Cleveland. Almost every Clevelander has ideas. At the City club, the Woman's City club, the Public Hall and the forums, ideas run riot. I found it such a pleasure to lecture before Cleveland audiences that half of the time I neglected to collect any fee. I was constantly stimulated by the intelligence and alertness of the audiences I talked to.

Clevelanders are willing to discuss anything. In fact, they quite insist upon it. The town is the most hospitable to ideas and discussions of any place in America. I think that one quality of open-mindedness would make Cleveland a city you couldn't help loving, even if there weren't many other good points to tie you to the place.

Expansion Movement Is Gaining Steadily

Replies To Suggested Projects Are Pouring Into Headquarters

New Castle Citizens Are Uniting To Give City Real Boost

If response to the questionaires which have been mailed to New Castle citizens, concerning the order and selection of major projects for 1927-28 is any indication of the support which may be anticipated in carrying them out, New Castle is well on its way to achieving some worth while results.

The proposed projects were mailed on Friday and several hundred more were put in the mail today. Leaders in the expansion movement were highly gratified at the large number of replies already returned, and several hundred additional replies were received in response to the copy of the questionarie in Friday's issue of The News.

Interest is increasing daily, many citizens are voluntarily calling headquarters for specific information, to enable them to answer the questions intelligently, or are calling in person at the office in the Greer building.

The executive committee, composed of eighty-five men, representative of the various business elements of New Castle held its tri-weekly meeting Friday at 4 p. m. In the absence of general chairman, David S. Pyle, who was out of the city yesterday, James K. Love, vice chairman in charge of sales organization, presided at the meeting, at which more than half of the committee was present.

From the preliminary reports which are being received daily, the indications point to city wide support and co-operation. Members of the executive committee are optomistic and are determined that New Castle must go forward. To this end they are giving of their time and money in helping to bring about the much needed development.

In a number of cases, subscribers in the preliminary canvass have exceeded the quotas allotted to them by the rating committee.

The larger industries and a number of the smaller ones have already pledged their support to this forward movement. Business firms are doing likewise and a number of subscriptions to the project program have voluntarily been mailed into headquarters.

Arrangements have been completed for the erection of two huge electric signs in the interest of the expansion movement. One of these signs will be placed on top of the city hall, and the other in the public square.

The signs are being erected by the Max Ludwig Company and their use and cost of putting up are being donated to the Chamber of Commerce by the Ludwig Company, out door advertising organization.

These panoramas of New Castle progress are being placed in the most advantageous locations to let strangers entering the city by rail or auto know that New Castle is awake to its opportunities and that it, among other American communities is forging ahead steadily and permanently.

"New Castle has quit talking and has begun to work." It has laid its foundation and will begin the erection of its super-structure at once" stated Mr. Chilton, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in an interview today. "It has already demonstrated its willingness and ability to bury the ax and to crystallize its thought and its expressions into a program of definite action." There could be no healthier indication for New Castle than this, and my prediction is that New Castle will profit by its lack of concerted community action in the past, and will go forward in the march with other American cities to the position of dominance and supremacy it rightfully deserves."

Owners Save Flowers From Frost Damage

Coverings Of All Kinds Are Used Last Night; Report Ice Frozen

Heavy white frost settled over New Castle and Lawrence county last night and considerable damage was done to fruit and flowers.

Reports come from certain parts of the section that all fruit buds which were fully in bloom were killed but the buds that were still unopened will likely come along alright and bear fruit provided they are not nipped by a later frost.

Many residents of New Castle that had flowers and plants set out in the open secured them from the ravages of the frost by covering them during the night.

The thermometer fell to around 30 degrees and ice has been reported frozen in several districts. It was a very clear night and after the cold wind fell and the sky cleared off, Jack Frost had an ideal opportunity. Mademoiselle Spring has been a cunning accomplice of Jack Frost in his designs for during the last week by all the wiles she knows she has been coaxing the trees and the flowers to put on their best spring finery only to have Jack this morning drape them in mourning.

Coaxed along by the spring or summer weather the last few days many of the fruit trees were almost in full bloom. Most of the trees in bloom are the peach and cherry trees. The apple trees will not be in bloom for some time. Yet on the peach and cherry trees quite a number, perhaps even half of the buds are not yet opened and these likely will escape freezing and thus a large fruit crop may be had in spite of the frost. For dame nature is so provident with her blooms that she furnishes nearly twice as many as necessary and even when not touched by frost many may need to fall off to make growing room for the rest.

Says Report On Walker Absurd

NEW YORK, April 23.—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, today characterized as "absurd" a report that Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, had been tendered an offer of $100,000 as president of the American League, replacing Ban Johnson. He declared that no league meeting had been held for the purpose of discussing a successor for Johnson, or for any other purpose since the February conclave; that Mayor Walker's name had not been mentioned to him in connection with the league by any man in baseball, and that the first he knew of the proposal was when it appeared in the newspapers.

Widow Loses Amount Of Verdict Under High Court Order

Decision Is Presented In Case Of J. W. Grimes, Killed At Newport

In an opinion received at the office of R. M. Campbell from the Superior court today Judge Hildebrand is sustained in the case of Lucy J. Grimes against he Pennsylvania Railroad company for the the death of her husband John W. Grimes at Newport.

In this case the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $8,000. The defense made a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict on the grounds that no negligence had been proven on the part of the defendant company. This motion was sustained by the lower court and an appeal then taken to the Superior court which affirms the lower court. This means that the palintiff cannot recover the amount of the verdict.

John W. Grimes was the driver of a milk wagon and was crossing the tracks west of Newport when his wagon was struck by a train.

It was shown at the trial that he made the trip daily and was aware of the nature of the crossing. There was a good view of the tracks for a considerable distance each way. Contributory negligence on the part of Grimes was alleged by the defense at the trial.

May Haul Pupils To Wurtemburg School

There will be a meeting of Perry township school patrons and directors at No. 6 school this evening for the purpose of considering the consolidation of some of the schools. Wurtemburg has a four room building, only two rooms of which are now occupied. It is proposed to bring the pupils from other schools for these rooms, if the project is favored by the patrons. County Superintendent J. C. Syling expects to attend the meeting.

Police Department On Daylight Time

Notice was posted at the police station this morning by Chief of Police Henry Dysart, that owing to the fact that the schools of the city go on daylight saving time Monday, that the department for that reason would also go on that time. This is necessitated by the fact that the children will be going to school an hour earlier and the day turn men, who watch traffic at the schools and on the main streets of the city will have to be on duty an hour earlier in order to take care of them. The day turn men report for duty at 8 a. m.

DAYLIGHT TIME AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

Services of the First Congregational church, East Reynolds street, effective Sunday morning, will be held during the summer months at the same hour, but according to daylight savings time.

This was decided at a meeting of the congregation held last Sunday evening, when a resolution was adopted to the effect that if the mills of the city were going on daylight savings time, the church services would also be held on that time. As notices have been posted to that effect in the mills of the city the services automatically go to that time starting Sunday.

it. It will be looked upon as a trusting and lamblike sucker. A lamb among the wolves, and the danger is that the other nations may eat it up.

This is a favorite idea among a certain class of people, the idea that our own nation is trusting, gentle and kind and harmless and all other nations are evil-minded and grasping.

There is no nation in the world in which this idea is not common.

The notion is not pecular to nations. There are many individuals who have it. Many people in a family refuse to be kind and gentle because they think the other members of the family will take advantage of them.

It seems to be an absurd idea that was in the mind of Christ that the way to beget kind treatment on the part of others is to give them kind treatment first.

Many people believe that doing unto others as they would have others do unto them is all right, but they neglect to add the corollary that you must do it first.

It looks as if it would take some time yet to get the idea in the minds of people that the way to keep from being attacked by others is not to attack them and not to be able to attack them.

The idea of the United States arming itself to the teeth is quite a popular one among certain classes. They do not take into account the utter futility of this program as proved during the late war and the fact that preparation for war in the way of armament can easily become an intolerable burden.

The best way to get rid of war is deliberately to turn our back upon it and the only thing we should do in the way of armament is to so arrange our affairs that the forces of peace can be quickly mobilized in the event of national danger. Our Army and Navy, for instance, cannot be too big if they are all employed in constructive peace-time work and can be easily switched into war at short notice, but to maintain them as a force merely drilling and preparing to destroy is to subject ourselves to the old-world burden of armament.

Mrs. A. L. Quinby Gives Details Of Her Trip

Los Angeles, Calif.,
April 12, 1927.

King's Packard Agency,
New Castle, Pa.,
Dear Mr. King:

I suppose you will be interested to know how I succeeded on my trip to the coast. The pleasure of the trip depended upon how the Packard performed, and it surely did wonderful as the records will show. Made Terre Haute, Indiana, the first day, 453 miles, then to Hot Springs, Arkansas, over a detoured route, but good roads, 388 miles. Hot Springs to Fort Worth, Texas, 380 miles; Fort Worth to Pecos, Texas, 422 miles; Pecos to Stafford, Arizona, 461 miles; Stafford to Phoenix was a slow day as I took the beautiful Apache trail through the canyon of the Rockies as well as one by the top of the mountains by way of Rooseveit dam, a distance of 212 miles.

The next day I finished the trip, leaving Phoenix at daylight making the run into Los Angeles at 9 p. m., making 504 miles for the day. Sometimes I drove 55 to 65 miles speed for hours.

The distance traveled was 3225 miles; gas used 231 gallons; oil 36 quarts.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. A. L. QUINBY.

Better Business Bureau Head Makes Statement On Daylight Savings

As announced in Thursday evening's News the various members of the Better Business Bureau of New Castle, comprising a majority of the larger stores voted to operate their stores during the coming summer on day-light savings time.

Notice has been sent out to the various members from the office advising of this action and it is hereby officially stated that members will operate on day-light savings time, beginning Monday, April 25.

In speaking of the matter this morning W. E. Gordon, president of the Better Business Bureau, issued the following statement: "The action of the members of the Better Business Bureau in voting to observe day-light savings time was decided upon in order to fully cooperate with the majority of the industries of the city. It is the Bureau's understanding that practically all of the industries of the city effecting a possible twenty-five to thirty thousand people will be operating on day-light savings time this summer and the Bureau felt that their action in adopting daylight savings time would clear up any differences or difficulties which might arise from having two times, thus obtaining a harmonious atmosphere. We trust that our patrons will fully understand our action in this matter which was impelled by our desire to create an amiable and friendly feeling between the mercantile and industrial establishments of the city." As stated above all Better Business Bureau members will operate their stores under day-light savings time beginning Monday.

Festival Chorus To Meet Monday

Everything is set for a record-making rehearsal of the big festival chorus at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium Monday night. Copies of the Festival Choral Fantasie from the opera Lohengrin have arrived from New York City and the 400 brass checks by which members will register their attendance will be in place at the entrance door to the auditorium. It will be necessary for all members to get their music and receive their enrollment check number from the secretary, Miss Cora Ritchie, before eight o'clock, thereby making it possible to begin the rehearsal on time.

All those who enroll now become charter members and are exempt from musical examinations. Expense of membership is limited to the purchase cost of the music.

WITH LOVE'S FIRES COOLED, DUO SEEKING DOOM OF OTHER DISCARD EMOTION AT TRIAL

Art Sketched in Courtroom Especially for Central Press Association by Miss Katherine Lowe.

By ALEXANDER C. HERMAN
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To New Castle News

COURTHOUSE, LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., April 23.—Cold-bloodedness now marks the duo whose fired passion plunged them into grim murder tragedy.

Mrs. Ruth Snyder sits calmly, demurely, attired in the most approved of murder-trial fashion—a dash of black, a string of beads to emphasize the whiteness of the neck, a coat suggesting the burdened stoop of a heavy shoulder.

Henry Judd Gray—once dashing as a corsetier and later as a Lothario—seems dashed now into a poker-faced stolidity.

Principals Seem Dull

The two—separated by a couple of ink-wells, a water pitcher, a few paper cups and the width of a desk—appear dull, lacking sparkle or fighting vigor.

They appear about as romantic as a pair of clams. Not even by the strongest stretch of imagination can one conjure the romantic glamor that must have been theirs once.

As the tedium of the trial drags on, bickerings between defending counsel, with an occasional clash with the prosecutor, offer the only relief. But even this is premeditated with a conniving cold matter-of- factness.

Counsel's Plan

For with each objection overruled, the Snyder and Gray counsel hope to prepare for an appeal to be taken if the verdict goes against them. Each hopes to contend that his client was robbed of all the due process of law to which he is entitled.

This quirk began with the long-drawn out selection of the jury. When Gray's lawyer challenged a juror agreeable to the Snyder forces the woman's lawyers were hot on their feet, expounding their contention that each of the defendants should be tried separately. "Overruled" piped the judge. "Exception" echoed the lawyers. And the ground-work for appeal was being laid.

And so it continues—a defensive prepared for a new trial in case of an adverse decision. But while the law may allow ample opportunity for stalling, time cannot outblot the heinousness of the crime.

That is why the vast galleries in the courtroom are focusing their main attention on the faces of the two principals.

Writer's Impressions

Peer as one will with discerning eye trained in many a courtroom, theirs is an astounding brazenness which sets one gasping.

The woman defendant is a widow. Disregarding entirely the fact that her husband was murdered, there should be some register of sorrow, some sign of the emotional strain which such death should leave. But there is none.

The thought that her fatherless child, a youngster of nine, may go through life an innocent victim blighted, is nothing.

Gray, in turn, painted a weakling, a sneaking paramour, called a jackal by his former mistress, broken of all family ties—which once were the highest—is just poker-faced.

Cold-bloodedly each of the defendants pins his hope in pinning the crime on the other.

Emotion goes out of the door when crime stalks in.

Pittsburgh Coal Company Imports Southern Miners

Non-Union Miners From Southern West Virginia Hired To Man Mines

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Non-union miners from the southern West Virginia bituminous coal fields will be used by the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company in its efforts to operate its Coverdale, Pa., mine despite the unionist suspension, it was revealed here today.

Nearly 125 miners, imported secretly by the company under heavy guard, were assembled at Charleston, W. Va., it was learned, and brought to Bruceton, Pa., near Coverdale. Here they were joined by additional coal and iron police and marched to the newly constructed barracks at Coverdale.

This move, following closely upon action of the company in securing eviction writs against unionist miners occupying the Terminal company houses, was seen as a part of the company's policy in renouncing unionist operations to adopt a lower scale of wages.

Observers here looked upon the importation of West Virginia non-unionist labor as an experiment, it being felt that if the Terminal company is successful in operating with the imported men, other mines will follow suit.

Meantime the Pittsburgh Coal company awaited word from Washington where Secretary of Labor Davis is considering a protest filed by Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, in which the latter charged the company was importing Mexican labor to man its mines.

C. E. Lesher, spokesman for the company, said that while the company had employed Mexican labor, it did not import the men, merely hiring them at its regular employment agencies.

PARIS, April 23.—The average annual per capita consumption of bread in France is 250 pounds. The total annual consumption is approximately seven million tons.

Under the circumstances it is not surprising that an increase of one-fifth of a cent per pound in the price of bread provokes vehement and sometimes violent protests.

The injured man was placed on the train and hurried to Columbia hospital, Wilkinsburg, where his condition was reported as critical.

British Women On Diet, Bread Sales Fall Off

(International News Service)

Ellwood Degree Team Presents Excellent Work

Visiting Team Initiates Classes At P. H. C. Meeting Here

With a splendid gathering of fraternalists, and representation from Pulaski, Youngstown, Greenville, Freedom, Beaver Falls, Meadville and New Brighton circles, the popular degree staff of Baird Circle 123, Ellwood City, were the honor guests of New Castle Circle No. 5, P. H. C. Thursday evening.

The visiting team came to initiate a class for the local circle and the perfection of their work was rewarded with storms of applause, especially well earned by their beautifully retiring drill team. The staff directed by their chaplain deputy, A. Blanche Canfield, presented a charming appearance in their elegant white satin regalia with patriotic trim, while the charges to the candidates could not have been more impressively given than by the officers of the team.

Following the ceremonial, Guardian Emma J. Goss, presented a program of unusual interest and later with her excellent committee served a delicious lunch.

Mrs. Sara Dana Falls Davis opened the program with several of her wonderful solos. New Castle's famous vocalist was never in better voice and was showered with applause.

Mrs. Murl Boyd, of Pulaski, is a general favorite in No. 5, and her wonderful soprano voice gave evidence of careful training as she contributed her selections to the program.

One of the biggest hits on the program was when Edward J. Davis was presented, an original humorist, with a magnetic presence. Mr. Davis simply kept the crowd in roars of laughter with his outbursts of wit and original poem on "Women's Ways and Dress". During his remarks, he stated that he wished it distinctly understood that while his wife may be prominent and popular he would not stand for being introduced as his wife's husband.

The splendid vocal numbers of Miss Bertha Taylor must not go unnoticed as she possesses a voice rich and clear.

Supreme Auditor Dr. R. G. Baird, of Sharon, made a wonderful address recalling the great mark of the Protected Home Circle. Dr. Baird stated that since its organization twenty-three million dollars had been paid out and that it is the first fraternal organization known to have a fixed monthly payment.

With ninety thousand members now on the new American experience plan, the future of the Protected Home Circle looks brighter than ever before.

It has just come to the notice of No. 5, that Dr. Baird is not only a brilliant speaker but is also an organist of ability and a treat is in store for the local circle.

The singing and dancing of Velma Sontag and Ruth Phillips always add to the good of the order, and these little ladies come in for their share of applause.

LILLIE B. JONES,
Secretary.

France Good Mart For Fake Pictures

PARIS, April 23.—France, with all her artistic culture, is a good market for fake masterpieces.

A collection of 63 paintings recently was bought by a wealthy Frenchman for 300,000 francs because many of the canvases were signed "Delacroix," "Millet," "Corot," "Monet," "Courbet" and other names with places in the Louvre.

Friends soon disillusioned the rich buyer and Charles Heim, the seller of the "heirlooms" had to refund the money. His defense was that he sold the collection without guaranteeing its authenticity.

"Anyway," he told the judge, "he might have known he couldn't get genuine pictures by such masters for that price."

Senior High School News

MOTTO SELECTED

Following several time worn arguments and debates by the students and teachers of the New Castle Senior High School as to what the motto of the school should be, "Perge Modo," meaning "to go forward," has been selected by the vote of the student body.

The graduating class of '27 will be the first to leave the school wearing the newly adopted school rings to take the place of the class rings used in former years. These school rings will have the motto and school engraved on them.

ATTENDING CONFERENCE

F. L. Orth, principal of the school, C. E. Baer, head of the science department, Miss Virginia McMasters, librarian and Miss Mary Good are attending the meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Educational Association being held in Schenley High School, Pittsburgh. The speaker of the day will be J. Russell Smith of Columbia University.

GLEE CLUB PINS

When a boy who has been a member of the Glee Club of the school graduates in this and future years, he will have a pin to let others know he did his part in holding up the musical standard of the school. These pins will be sent for as soon as the 20 members of the club have decided just what type of pin they shall have.

ALUMNUS ENTERTAINS

Walter Le Lillo, a former player in the Senior High School band and orchestras, now attending Peabody Conservatory at Baltimore, gave the members of the Senior High orchestra a group of violin numbers lately which were greatly appreciated. While going to this school, De Lillo played a violin in the Junior and Senior orchestra and a cornet in the band.

ATTENDING MUSIC SCHOOLS

In the Carnegie Tech Public School Musical Department, there are 7 boys studying to be teachers of music in public schools, of this number, 3 are New Castle High School graduates, Ben Graham, Scott Sample, and Richard Deverill, all of the class of '26.

In the high school band this year there are several boys who plan to take public school teaching, in the music world, as life work. They are as follows: James Remeley, Sherwood Brown, Gordon Jenkins, and Domenick De Lillo.

SOPHOMORE B. HONORED

Miss Margaret Patton, teacher of class 10 B. in the school feels that Genevra Anne Hazen should be honored for her work on the writing of an essay on "The Hebrews." Miss Hazen did fine work in this, equal to what a teacher would expect from a senior or even a college student. She goes through it very clearly showing the start of the race, their development, and their present worth.

ONE-THIRD OF BAND GRADUATES

According to La Verne Irvine, instructor of music in the Senior High school, about one-third of the members of the Senior orchestra and band will graduate this year as usual, taking the pick of both musical bodies. At the start of the present school term, inexperienced music critics were stating their belief that the New Castle band or orchestra would not amount to much. This has been the way with these people every year, and every year they are fooled. The band and orchestra in the school now are as good as the ones of many past years.

ADVICE TO PLAYERS

It is the advice of La Verne Irvine that students who hope to take up music in the school next year, on one of the school's instruments, should let him know at the start of the school term instead of waiting until the classes have been running for several weeks. This was done by many this year, and they were disappointed because they did not receive instruments.

Boys, Consider Status Of Girls

CHICAGO, April 23. — Prof. W. Ryland Boorman, head of the department of boys' work of the Y. M. C. A. college, has just completed a survey of the mental processes of the high school boy.

The survey, which was financed by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial Foundation, reveals that social status, looks, disposition, skill and ability, morals and character, and sex appeal are the outstanding factors which influence boys of the 'teen age in the selection of girl friends.

Prof. Boorman gained his facts from an extended correspondence with boys in all parts of the United States. The girls' social status is placed first by Prof. Boorman. Looks are second.

Skirts Continue Long In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, April 23.—No matter what Paris says, skirts will continue to be worn long by those received at the Swedish court.

Like Queen Mary of England, Queen Victoria of Sweden consistently defies the decrees of fashion and though she is seldom home, her wishes that skirts should not hang more than four inches from the floor are respected at official receptions. At other times Swedish women, even princesses, wear their skirts as they please.

"6 years' use without any engine repairs"

—A statement from an enthusiastic Willys-Knight owner.

The engine improves with use

The sweeping trend toward Willys-Knight—and tremendously increasing sales—are explained by distinguished performance. No other car is so richly equipped with advantages:

The Knight Engine—The only type of engine that improves with use.

7-Bearing Crankshaft—Eliminates vibration.

Skinner Rectifier—Prevents oil dilution.

4-Wheel Brakes—Positive, mechanical, quick-acting.

Belflex Shackles—Patented spring shackles that make the chassis lastingly quiet. No greasing or adjustment.

8 Timken Bearings in Front Axle—Most fine cars have but four. Easiest steering you have ever known.

Narrow Body Pillars at Windshield—Insuring greater vision; an added safety factor.

Adjustable Front Seat—Designed to give maximum driving comfort, regardless of your size or stature.

Light Control at Steering Wheel—Within easy finger reach. Convenient as a wrist watch.

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

You can see why Nash has extra power

The extra power that makes Nash a more capable car to drive, particularly on the hills or in dense traffic, is directly due to extra-efficient design.

The Nash Straight Line Drive, for instance, diagrammed above.

Nash power flows directly from the engine to the rear axle in a straight line. There are no angles along the route to waste energy, as there would be if the motor were mounted parallel to the frame, as the ordinary motor is.

The Straight Line Drive accounts in part for Nash aggressiveness—for the powerful pick-up at low speeds (where you need it most). You will always notice it is the Nash that gets away soonest when the traffic starts.

The Straight Line Drive also avoids wear on the universal joints, and thereby prevents noise and looseness.

Of course, it takes a little longer and costs more to build Nash this better way—

—But any Nash owner will tell you it makes a lot of difference in the results he gets.

Drive a Nash, before you decide which car to buy!

SENATOR McNARY STILL TRYING TO GET PLAN FOR FARM RELIEF

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon is spending what ought to be his vacation trying to hit on a farm relief program, for the next session of congress, which President Coolidge can approve.

In the way of an agreement between McNary and the president there is, after all, only one stumbling block.

Thus far the senator has been unable to think up a scheme that suited him which the chief executive didn't pronounce "economically unsound," while no plan acceptable to Mr. Coolidge is regarded by the Oregon statesman as "any good."

Otherwise they're in hearty accord.

Senator McNary will be recalled as a collaborator with Representative Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa in the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, which the agricultural bloc succeeded in getting through the last congress, only to see it vetoed by the president, and then to drop, perforce, because the bloc hadn't enough votes to pass it over his head.

Naturally the situation's unsatisfactory to all parties concerned.

McNary, Haugen et al haven't a thing to show for several years' hard work. The president's placed in the light of having turned thumbs down on a proposition the farmers were able to muster a congressional majority for, which isn't calculated to do him any good among the Corn Belt voters, either at the next Republican convention or at the national election of 1928.

If he could give 'em a satisfactory compromise next winter there's no doubt he'd be glad to, only it's a pretty hard thing to compromise.

The McNary-Haugen plan has been argued, pro and con, by all available experts, to the tune of many large volumes, and no conclusion was arrived at, at that.

So there's small hope of settling the question here.

But the nub of it is:

How's the American farmer to be protected against his own competition?

The American manufacturer's protected by keeping competing foreign goods out.

American labor's protected by keeping competing foreign labor out.

The American farmer has to pay for all this protection, for others' benefit, but gets none of his own. The same kind of protection that protects the industries and labor does him no good. His own overproduct is what undersells him.

So, to help the farmer, the McNary-Haugen plan proposes an application of the protective tariff principle in reverse—wrong side up, inside out and stern end first.

Heaven knows how it would work, but this much is certain:

It wouldn't work at all until it was wound up with a key, known as an "equalization fee," which the farmer pays, when he markets his crop, to take his surplus off his hands.

Now, mind ya, the machinery absolutely won't run until it's wound up with an "equalization fee" key.

"I'll stand for almost anything," President Coolidge assures Senator McNary, "but I positively draw the line on an equalization fee. It's economically unsound."

*What McNary is trying to find, between now and next December, is some way of making his contrivance run without any motive power. He stands about as much chance as he does of discovering perpetual motion, most authorities say.

The driver of the automobile did not stop and firemen summoned Sheriff Kenneth Smith from the jail a block away.

In his speed car the sheriff soon overtook the driver who gave his name as John Grimes and said his home was at West Liberty.

Sheriff Smith thought the man did not speak distinctly and in looking about the automobile found 14 pints of alleged whiskey.

Grimes is in jail on a charge of transporting liquor. His automobile and cargo were confiscated by the sheriff.

New York Acquarium In Old Fort Clinton Appeals To Millions

By ARTHUR WIMER
New York Correspondent, New Castle News.

NEW YORK, April 23.—When amateur fishermen everywhere answer the call of summer breezes and begin getting out their rods and tackle, New York City sends out a unique angler. He goes to the sport without rod, line or seine. He packs up galvanized tanks, an air pump or two and ships for southern waters. There he watches the hauls come in, purchases his selections of the finny creatures and returns laden with hundreds of specimens of fish. He is the collector of the New York acquarium.

Today the acquarium is second to none in the world in either space or variety of specimens. Located as it is in Old Fort Clinton on the Battery at the entrance of New York harbor, it forms one of the chief spots of interest to visitors of the city. Since 1924 more than 71,000,000 persons have passed through the doors to enjoy the colorful exhibits within, and frequently the Sunday crowd of visitors numbers 20,000.

Although the acquarium is now surrounded on all sides by metropolitan activities it is still reminiscent of the romances of old. Today grim skyscrapers frown down upon it from three sides, and from the east the Statue of Liberty casts a shadow over the building. But 120 years ago that same building was old Fort Clinton, standing on a reef 100 yards from the shore and approached only over a drawbridge.

It is for many years a fort, then a concert house where Jenny Lind sang, and later a landing place for immigrants. Thirty years ago the city bought the structure of old, moss-covered red brick and placed there its acquarium. Since then the little island has become a part of Manhattan and the drawbridge has gone, but the exterior of the old fort has remained unchanged except by the hand of time.

Its brick and concrete walls eight feet thick, have become more gray and mossy. Its two great plank doors of solid oak, studded with 1,500 bolts, have remained swinging by the massive hand-fashioned hinges upon which they were hung by men of war long ago. Three years ago the city expended $400,000 upon improvements in the interior, but to all appearances from the outside the building has been unchanged by the metropolis around it.

A trip through the acquarium is a fascinating visit to wonderland. Here may be found species of fish and other creatures of the water from all parts of the oceans and inland streams. Each family is housed in a glass tank 11 feet deep. By means of fresh water, salt water, oxygen, heating plants, refrigerating plants, sand, rocks and sea weed these tanks are furnished to represent as nearly as possible the natural environment of the fish. The captives are fed upon frozen beef, clams, shrimp and fish especially ground.

The most interesting exhibits, perhaps, are the brightly colored fish. The thousands of gold fish must be replaced regularly because they fade and lose their beauty. Their color is regulated, according to the director of the acquarium, by their emotional reactions, fear, anger, contentment and many others.

For this reason many of the brightly-colored fighters are given special attention in the acquarium. Segregation would mean the loss of their charm and color, since it is the fighting mood that brings out the colorful effects on their bodies. By means of placing these would-be fighters in adjoining tanks, separated by only a thin layer of glass, this fighting spirit is kept up and their rainbow colors retained without danger to the fragile bodies.

Many fish live for years in the acquarium. Others die after a few months of captivity. But the glass tanks are kept constantly filled with the beautiful and strange creatures by the collector who is ever on the alert with his air pump and tanks.

Odd Fellows, Attention

Chicago Company To Appear Here In Student Prince

It requires real artists to put on a production like "The Student Prince", which will be shown here Tuesday, May 3, at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Every member of the cast that will be seen and heard here is an artist.

No doubt theatergoers here will be interested in learning that the Shuberts are sending one of their outstanding companies to this city and that the production will be presented here on the same massive scale as in Chicago and other large cities of the country, the company appearing here being the original Chicago company.

Individually some of the topnotch artists of the theatrical world will appear here on the night of May 3. Eliz Gergely, who takes the part of Kathie, the leading feminine role, originated Mitzi in "Blossom Time", while Lucius Metz, who portrays the part of Prince Karl, the leading male character in the cast, starred in the same part in Chicago.

Only talented and trained singers appear in the cast presenting "The Student Prince" here. Many of the young men have sung abroad in grand opera. The person who fails to attend this production will miss the greatest musical treat in the history of the city.

Mercer County Music-Literary Round-up April 29

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 23.—All judges for the Mercer county music-literary round-up to be held at Sharon April 29, afternoon and evening, according to announcement of Prof. G. H. Crowther of Grove City high school, are to come from outside Mercer county. The majority are to come from the several high schools of Youngstown, O.; Warren, O.; New Castle, Meadville and Edinboro. Practically all the judges are heads of departments or teachers of some experience in high school or normal school work.

The round-up touches more phases of school work than any other event of the school year. Contests will be held in academic subjects, as well as in the music and literary classes. The academic contests include spelling, algebra, American history and letter writing. Vocal, piano and violin solos make up the musical events, while the literary part of the program includes recitation, oration, essay, declamation and extemporaneous speaking.

Medals will be awarded to the individual students who win first, second and third places in each event. Gold medals for first place, silver for second place and bronze for third place. Loving cups will be awarded the winning school in group A, the winning school in group B and the winning school of the county.

The large number of the students of the local school to enter the trial events for positions on the team to be sent to the round-up is indicative of the intense interest being shown over the county event. Nearly one hunderd and seventy-five students of the local high school are entered in the elimination trials, which are now being held.

Knights Of Pythias Hall Near Completion

GROVE CITY, Pa., April 23.—The work of remodeling and redecorating the new lodge rooms of the local Knights of Pythias is nearing completion this week. Workmen have completed the remodeling of the part of the building to be used for lodge rooms, and painters and paper hangers are busy decorating the interior. The new home of the local lodge is the old Presbyterian church building on the corner of Broad and Main streets. The building was bought by the Pythians about a year ago, and the total cost of the building and the remodeling will reach nearly $30,000. Eakin & Son, a local contracting firm, has had charge of the work on the building.

LUCK HELPS OWNER WHO RECOVERS CAR, AND GETS DRIVER

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., April 23.—Harold Crawford of this place lost his automobile Wednesday, it being stolen from a local garage. Believing he would find the machine in Pittsburgh, Crawford and two friends started for the city, but failing to find the thief, or the machine, started home.

Passing through Wilkinsburg they saw the car with Clark Craft driving it. Craft was taken to the Wilkinsburg police station and yesterday was brought to Punxsutawney by local police. He was held for court after waiving a hearing.

Combined Atlantic And Pacific Fleet To Steam Into New York Harbor

ARMADA TO LAY ANCHOR IN HUDSON

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Uncle Sam's sea-power will go on show here on April 29—the largest concentration of American war vessels in New York waters since 1919.

The combined Atlantic and Pacific fleet, numbering 126 fighting vessels, will steam proudly into New York harbor and 30,000 sailors and marines will enjoy a virtual vacation after the gruelling winter maneuvres off Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

This American armada will remain in the waters of the Metropolis until May 16 when it will put off for Narragansett Bay for the army-navy maneuvers.

Although many warships will be absent due to service in Chinese waters and in Nicaragua, the Hudson will be dotted with vessels at anchorage from lower Manhattan as far as Yonkers, N. Y.

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander in chief of the combined fleet, will lead the naval procession into New York harbor aboard his flagship the Seattle. Other admirals who are with the fleet are Admiral R. H. Jackson, Vice Admirals Louis R. DeSteiguer and A. H. Robertson, Rear-Admirals J. V. Chase, Luke McNamee, George R. Laws, H. H. Christy and W. W. Phelps.

Contributions To Flood Suffers Is Over $10,000 Mark

Estimate 2,500 Refugees Quartered At Memphis, Tennessee, Fairgrounds

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 23.—Warm-hearted contributions had increased the Memphis relief fund to $10,000, and relief work at the Tri-State fairgrounds was going forward with increasing speed today.

One thousand more homeless, scantily-clad, cold and hungry flood sufferers from the St. Francis basin arrived early today when two refugee trains came in from Hughes, Ark., after a 48 hour fight, during which time the trains were stopped more than a dozen times to remove floating logs from the flooded tracks.

About 2,500 persons were quartered at the reservation today.

Three Memphis theatres tomorrow will give Sunday shows—not allowed in Tennessee for profit—for the benefit of flood sufferers. Next week's wrestling matches, prize fights and a baseball game by the Memphis Checks will swell the relief fund several thousand dollars.

The board of health is enforcing strict sanitary rules at the refugee reservation.

Court Ruling Puts Halt To Eviction Of Miners Families

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—The eviction of the families of striking union coal miners living in houses of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at Coverdale, Pa., was halted here today when Judge James MacFarland in common pleas court handed down a rule instructing the corporation to show cause why the eviction should not be halted.

The case now is scheduled to go over to the regular argument list of common pleas court and probably will not be heard before June, court attaches said.

As a result the miners cannot be evicted on the writ secured by the coal corporation which recently announced a non-union policy.

Oliver Eaton, attorney for the United Mine Workers of America, asked the court for the rule. The writ was granted on a technicality growing out of the preparation of the eviction papers.

Attorneys for the coal corporation made a plea for an early hearing on the petition, but the judge held that there "seemed to be no reason for haste", and declined to set a date for the hearing.

The question to be determined was whether a wife, by a post nuptial agreement which she entered into with her husband has deprived herself of the right to share in his estate. The local court decided that she has not. The only daughter and legatee of the deceased husband appealed.

The supreme court finds as follows: "The widow, appellee, was the second wife of decedent; the daughter, appellant, was the only child of the first marriage.

"The agreement into which the husband and wife entered recites that disputes and unhappy differences have arisen between them. The consideration named therein was $1, and other considerations. It provides for the parties living apart, that the wife may carry on her separate business and that the husband relinquishes any interest in her property which he may have. It provides for the parties living apart. The husband agreed within ten days to file an application for divorce and to prosecute it to judgment, so that the parties should be legally divorced. The wife released her interest in his estate with the full right and privilege, in the husband, to dispose of the same as though she were legally dead, or as if they were never legally married.

The wife agreed, "that she will make no defense to any petition or libel in divorce agreed upon to be filed by the husband." The court below held that this last provision rendered the entire contract void. It was the contention of the appellant that this part of the contract was executory and severable and the rest of the contract valid. We agree with the conclusion reached by the trial judge that the entire contract is void. For a husband and wife to agree that one of them shall bring a suit for divorce and the other shall not defend, is against the law which recognizes the sanctity of marriage, and is void." The decision means that the widow gets her share in the estate.

Anthracite Coal Industry Faces Another Crisis

Check-off System Causes Dispute; Secret Meeting Fails To Halt Strife

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—The anthracite coal industry today again faced another controversy between miners and operators over the checkoff of miners' pay for union dues. The situation is nearing the crisis stage it was reported today following fruitless efforts to settle the disputed question at a secret meeting of operators and miners' representatives here yesterday. Members of the conciliation board sat behind closed doors all afternoon, finally adjourning until May 19 after giving out a short statement. The statement said, "President John L. Lewis, of the U. M. W. and Richard F. Grant, were present and gave their views in regard to paragraph four of the wage agreement."

Grant is the independent Cleveland operator credited with settling the coal strike last year. Paragraph four is the section of the agreement which Lewis and other union leaders maintain provides for the "check-off." The operators have refused to make public their interpretation.

Smith Tells How Commerce Chamber Is City Benefit

In a letter addressed to David S. Pyle, chairman of the New Castle expansion movement, James M. Smith, president and manager of the Shenango Pottery, says, regarding the Chamber of Commerce:

The good that the New Castle Chamber of commerce can do for this community in advancing its civic, commercial and industrial interests will be at all times in direct proportion to the strength of the Chamber fo Commerce. In this way many of New Castle's leading business men have expressed themselves in urging the support of the New Castle chamber in the present expansion movement.

We could not do without the Chamber of Commerce any more than we could do without banks. It should be liberally supported by the community, and the further its support is extended, the more good it will be able to accomplish. The more points of direct contact we have with the community the better we will be to feel its pulse and do what is best for the general good.

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Tells Why Autos Are Banned From College Campuses

ATLANTA, Ga., April 23.—A fad among Oberlin (O.) college students of owning dilapidated flivvers caused college authorities to bar automobiles from the Oberlin campus, Dean C. C. W. Nichol told the convention of college deans here on Friday.

"An obsession for owning antique chariots swept the campus like the craze for the loose hanging sock" Dean Nichol said. "As a result the four-wheel wrecks broke down on week-end trips and made the students days late in returning to their classes.

"The time they should have been studying students spent tinkering with their rattling little cars, so Oberlin finally decided to bar the use of automobiles by students.

"This desire to own a dilapidated Lizzie became such a mania that I have known of cases where students actually battered the fenders and body of new cars to make them conform to the rakish, fender flapping brothers of the campus.

"We had little trouble with wild automobile parties. It was the wasted time element which caused us to bar automobiles" Dean Nichol concluded.

Capt. Craig Speaks At Senior High

Tells Students Of Citizens Training Camps Of Coming Summer

Captain Melvin L. Craig, in charge of securing recruits for the Citizens' Military Training Camps, in this district, spoke to the students of the Senior High School, Friday morning, April 22.

Captain Craig was introduced by Mr. Weide of the science department of the school.

He has been in the service of the United States Army for a number of years and has received wide experience in this line. He spoke in behalf of the C. M. T. C. and urged the boys to attend.

He said, in part: that the camps were first started during Theodore Roosevelt's administration. At that time they were called merely Training Camps. Their popularity grew and when the World War commenced these camps were called upon to prove their worth and they did so, rendering valuable service in the war. On June 4, 1920, Congress passed a bill calling for the establishment of Citizens' Military Training Camps. The first camp was held in 1921, making them six years old this year. The camps have the approval of many noted men. Even President Coolidge sends his boy there every summer.

The camp this year will be held at Fort Washington, Maryland, from August 9 until September 4. All those between the ages of 17 and 31 years of age are eligible to attend, after they have passed a physical examination.

Cap't. Craig's talk was enjoyed by all, it being a very inspiring one.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, April 23, 1927. —Period centering on April 27 is expected to be one of moderately severe storms; principal feature of this storm period will be the cold wave following storm center, which is expected to reach well down into central latitudes; this storm period will cause general average temperatures to again return to considerably below normal. Precipitation during this storm period will be generally above normal; in central cotton belt and east-central great central valleys precipitation of this period will be heavy, probably excessive. A general warm wave will center on April 23 and with the cold wave in north and cool wave in south that is expected to follow, centering on 27, during storm period centering on 27, is expected to cause the greatest extremes of the month. Summary of May crop weather will appear in my next weekly bulletin.

Jupiter Pluvius and Pluoise Earth

Jupiter's influence of local periodic precipitation on this earth is at times very marked, very great and very certain; those results of Mr. Husted's investigations regarding river guages and general precipitation, referred to in last bulletin, are one positive evidence of this influence from far away Jupiter; as Jupiter nears aphelion, farthest point from the sun, certain localities on the earth will be experiencing below normal precipitation; as Jupiter nears perihelion, the reverse will be experienced in the same localities. The localities where these extremes will be experienced, however, are located by an entirely different influence; Jupiter's influence would necessarily be relative to his relative position to sun and earth, an influence whose cycle would be a little less than 12 years; this influence would at times show up in results experienced as an average drainage of such a large area as that drained by the combined Missouri and Mississippi rivers; different parts of this large area, however, would be experiencing opposite conditions at the same time. Millions of experiments have taught us that no one influence in planetary meterology will produce even similar results all the time in our local atmospheric conditions; the Sun, Earth, Moon and each planet must be considered in every phase, relative position and movement, to make local forecasts of temperatures and precipitation that will average more than 50 per cent correct. The movement of electro-magnetic force that would be caused by Jupiter's movement toward the Sun would cause an extended atmosphere and increased evaporation in the earth's atmosphere; the area in which that evaporated moisture would be precipitated could not possibly be located by Jupiter's influence. Mr. Husted had better not have gone into "Earthquake Cycle" and Sunspot Influence on Precipitation; his conclusions only show the very limited investigations he has made on these subjects. A true thesis of nature's workings will disclose the fact that all causes and results are relative. Sunspots and the so-called "Earthquake Cycle" are certainly related to and influenced by Jupiter's orbital position.

CITY-WIDE PARTICIPATION

Invited and Urged In

New Castle's Expansion Movement

YOU are invited to take part in the development of the project program for New Castle tentatively outlined below, and intended to cover the period from May 1, 1927, to May 1, 1928. When approved and adopted by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, it will constitute the definite and specific forward steps, in launching New Castle's Expansion Movement.

The "executive" and "policies and projects" committees, are highly desirous of the expressions of the entire citizenship.

The list of suggested projects herein have been submitted by the policies and projects committee, augmented by additional suggestions from more than three hundred business and professional men.

Owing to the large number of projects suggested, it is obviously necessary to eliminate a number of them, as their fulfillment would require too great an expenditure.

It is believed that the composite views of the citizens will enable the committee to single out the more important and particularly those which should have immediate attention. You are therefore asked to number in the order of their importance, the projects as you believe they should be undertaken, and to add any further suugestions you may have.

The projects determined upon will be vigorously prosecuted by the entire and, necessarily greatly expanded, Chamber of Commerce.

Your replies will be treated in confidence and you are asked to express yourself freely.

SUGGESTED PROJECTS FOR NEW CASTLE

MAY 1, 1927 -- May 1, 1928

TO THE CITIZENS OF NEW CASTLE AND MEMBERS OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE:

In making plans for the operation of your Chamber of Commerce for the year 1927-28 (May 1 to May 1), the Board of Directors is confronted with the necessity of including among these plans some definite forward looking steps. It is obviously necessary to carry on the general functions of the Chamber, a large part of which is routine and which, as a whole, have the general effect of maintaining the progress which has characterized the development in the past. It is the conviction of the Board of Directors, however, that this year is one of crucial importance in the development of New Castle and that the plans of our city building organization should include in addition to these regular and usual functions some definite forward steps which will make this year one of extensive and rapid development. The opportunities for such a definite step forward are evident to everyone and the necessity is that this organization rise fully to the opportunities that present themselves.

In accordance with this conviction, a committee upon Policies and Projects was appointed from among the members of the Chamber and was asked to formulate the projects which, in its opinion, would produce the greatest results for the year 1927-28. As a result of several meetings a number of such projects were proposed. These projects which have been recommended, if carried out fully, would make 1927-28 a year of by far the most impressive growth of New Castle's history.

Accordingly, this committee solicits your opinion as to the most important of these projects.

Therefore, these proposed projects are herewith submitted to you with the request that you examine them carefully, weigh them in view of the conditions as you understand them and express your opinion of their relative importance. The order in which these projects are submitted is determined alphabetically and has no reference to the rank in importance given them by the Committee.

These activities will all be carried on as heretofore. Such projects as are being selected from the list outlined above will be in addition to the present activities of the Chamber though in some of these lines the Chamber has already been active for some time.

In indicating your preference on the enclosed sheet, please mark in the box before each title the rank in which you value them, numbering them from "1" up to "8."

A prompt return is requested to reach this office not later than April 30th, 1927. The committee on Policies and Projects desires to report its recommendation to the Board of Directors on May 4th. The decision of the board will be largely made by the suggestions of the entire community.

Panama Canal Has Traffic Problem, Too; New Lock or New Cut Needed in Decade

Panama Canal business is booming! Uncle Sam is faced with the necessity of adding a new lock, at a cost of $125,000,000, or of building the proposed Nicaraguan Canal, which would save 500 miles for most ships. Picture: one set of the Panama locks today; map: the location of the Panama and proposed Nicaraguan Canal.

WASHINGTON (U-I-N Special). —Thirteen years ago on August 5 the Panama Canal was opened to the ships of the world.

It was a huge undertaking for the times. But the time is drawing close when an even larger undertaking may be necessary to keep traffic moving between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Within ten years, according to experts who are studying the situation, the capacity of the Panama Canal will have been reached.

Two alternates are open: Enlargement of the canal or building the proposed Nicaraguan Canal. And because of the length of time required for either project, action must be taken immediately.

President Coolidge is interested in the problem and is making a study of it. Representative Martin Madden, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, has indicated a willingness to fight for an appropriation, estimated at $50,000,000 for the enlargement of the present canal. Senator Walter E. Edge has advised the administration that $125,000,000 ought to be spent for a new lock on the canal, and that sooner or later $500,000,000 must be spent for the Nicaraguan cut.

A comparison of the present and proposed canals shows: The Panama Canal cost $375,000,000; the Nicaraguan will cost from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. Total distance for the Panaman, 47 miles; Nicaraguan 183 miles. Time for transit—Panaman, six to eight hours; Nicaraguan, eighteen to thirty-six hours. The Nicaraguan Canal, however, will cut 500 miles off the voyages of ships from North Atlantic to North Pacific ports.

A new canal will give the United States just that much more to protect in time of war, but would facilitate the movement of war shipping.

Rights to construct a canal through Nicaragua were obtained by the United States for $3,000,000.

The Panama Canal exceeded its expenses by $16,000,000 last year, which is more than enough to pay interest on the original cost. Besides that, Government vessels, which at commercial rates would have paid $900,000, went through free.

While traffic through the canal is heavy now, the operating time can be increased as traffic grows. At the present time the canal is closed to shipping several hours at night to permit dredging and repairs. But the limit to the operating time is not far away.

CHINESE SHOTS MISS DANCERS

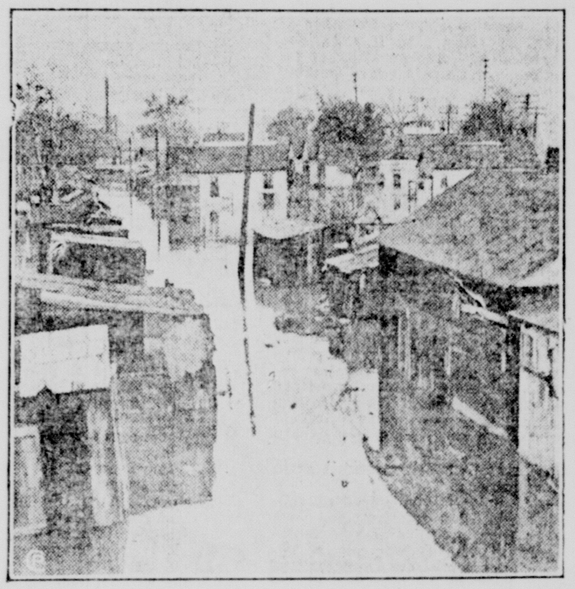

A Chinese sniper fired several shots at the Misses Berney Cole and Rena Shade, revue dancers, when they went for a walk on Nanking road, Shanghai, so they canceled their engagement and here we see them arriving in San Francisco, happy to return home.

AIRPLANE VIEW OF WHOLE TOWN UNDER WATER

This striking airplane photo shows the town of Columbus, Ky., virtually covered by the flood waters of the Mississippi river, on the greatest rampage ever recorded. Along 1,500 miles of the Mississippi's length and for many hundreds of miles more, up tributaries, scores of thousands of persons have been driven from their homes. At many places, the great river resembles a sea that has arisen suddenly and covered land and habitations as far as eye can see—the inundated area being as large as some European states.

KANSAS CITY GETS A TASTE

Scene in Kansas City, Mo., when a deluge caused the Blue river at the eastern border of the city, to sweep over its banks, routing hundreds of residents in the lowlands. Cities hundreds of miles from the Mississippi have suffered as much from the flood, in many instances as communities on the main stream—tributaries having risen to unusually high stages. Kansas City's flood, however, may be considered a minor affair in comparison with deluges elsewhere.

Treed by Wolves

Miss Helen Thomas of Hewettville, Wis., is recovering from the harrowing experience of passing 18 hours in a tree in the woods with a pack of wolves surrounding her. Miss Thomas had gone into the woods back of her home to gather wild flowers and lost her way. Late in the afternoon she heard the wolves howling and barely succeeded in climbing a tree before five appeared. It was nine o'clock next morning before they were frightened off by rescuers. She was nearly prostrated with fear and fatigue.

Crawl to Safety

Crawling seventy miles in twelve days on hands and knees over jagged, broken ice and carrying eighty-pound packs, Capt. George Hubert Wilkins, above, and his pilot, Ben Eielson, below, suffering with broken fingers, have come back to safety after abandoning their plane on a polar ice pack. In their plane, the two men had started from Point Barrow, Alaska, for an exploration of the Arctic. The plane developed motor trouble, and then the gasoline gave out.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

PLENTY IN THE PANTRY

Cutie Fox was now so curious that he quite forgot to be angry. He poked his nose into the opening and said in a wheedling tone:

"Won't you speak to me, little Two-Legs, if indeed you are in that tunnel, as Chipmunk said you were? I have never done you nor yours any harm, so you have no need to feel unfriendly to me."

"Speak to the fellow," whispered Chipmunk in the boy's ear. "He will be puzzled that he will not be able to hunt for the rest of the day!"

"Hello, Fox!" called Peter. "Don't be too sure that you have never done me or mine any harm. How about those chickens that you carried off from the farm last summer!"

"By my red tail!" gasped Fox. "So you are a Two-Leggs after all! For once Chipmunk told the truth. How is it that you are so small? Why are you and Chipmunk such chums? How long have you known each other? When are you coming out? Where are you going after you leave the burrow?"

Chipmunk nudged the boy and whispered again.

"Don't tell him a thing," said he. Then aloud he chattered:

"Why should Two-Legs tell you, anything, Cutie Fox, after the run you gave him but a few moments ago. He hasn't gotten his breath back yet. As for me I am as fresh of wind as ever I was and I could answer your questions if I wanted to but I don't. It will do you good to find out there is something in this world you don't know. You think you are the wisest bushy tail that roams the fields, but there are others quite as clever, don't you forget that. Come on Two-Legs, let's be off. I'll go first and lead the way. Take hold of my tail. I'll go slowly and before long we'll be in the bosom of the family."

Then off the two started, Chipmunk guiding Peter with his bushy tail and neither of them paying a bit of attention to Cutie Fox, who stood at the doorway barking questions at them.

"If he yaps long enough he'll tire himself out, so he will have a hard time running away from the farmer's big dog," chuckled Chipmunk. "I hope he does. Always scaring us little folks to death—it would be sort of fun to see him scared for once. But, there, let's forget about the old redcoat. Here we are by the storeroom door. Want to peek in and see how well filled our pantry shelves are?"

Peter did and followed his guide aside into a room that opened off from the long passage. It was darker here than it had been in the tunnel, and it was some time before he could make out objects.

"If you can't see, feel," commanded Chipmunk, so stretching out his hand the boy touched a number of little rough round things.

"Nuts?" asked he.

"Righto!" answered Chipmunk. "The pile you now have your hand upon is acorns. Next are checker berries. Here are a few cherry pits. Over there are some dried buds. Next to those lie our favorite delicacy, beechunts."

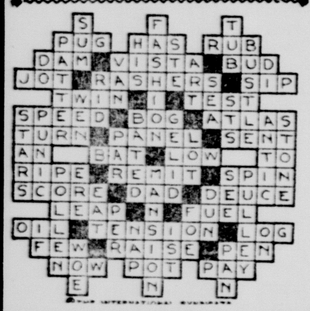

At last Peter's eyes had grown accustomed to the darkness. He could see the storeroom was piled from ground to roof with goodies.

"Not the least danger of your family going hungry. My, what a well-stocked pantry! If ever there was a fellow worthy of his name it is you, Mr. Tamias."

GENE TUNNEY PLANS ACTIVE RING CAREER

Plans For One Bout Each Year

For Five Years Tunney Intends To Defend Title, Then Call It "Quits"

DISPELS FEARS OF IDLENESS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, April 23.—Take it from James Joseph Tunney, who thinks he is in a position to know, there will be a heavyweight championship fight held annually for the next four or five years, assuming, of course, that James continues to have the situation well in hand. He informed the writer today that, merely "as a measure of common sense," he planned to fight in defense of his title at least once a year for five years—regardless of purses and opponents—and then call it a career.

"Why, they couldn't have kept me out this year even if I had had to challenge the contender myself," he said, this morning, some hours before his scheduled conference with Tex Rickard. "I'm to make plenty of money out of my fight this summer but, even if the purse had been satisfactory, I would have signed, anyhow. Money, I grant you, is important and I'm frank to say that I want all I can get but the man who sits in idleness for several years, waiting for what he calls the 'break,' is cheating himself just as surely as though he failed to go to the cashier's window for his weekly salary."

Confident Of Ability.

"The Blade," he added, warming to his rhetoric, "grows dull and rusted from disuse. It had been so with every heavyweight champion of the modern era but it won't be so with me. That is "—hastily—" assuming that I will be able to win from my opponents. However, no one can blame me for feeling that I will."

James, of course, may be pardoned for taking a philosophic view of finances in general, since his conversation with Rickard may have some slight reference to a sum of $100,000 the promoter will be in his debt on May 1. The further fact that it is only an item in the "nut" that Rickard must assume in lining up Tunney undoubtedly had a somewhat mellowing effect on the latter's outlook.

However, he insisted that his sincerity was above question in claiming that physical readiness was of greater importance than the size of the purse in considering any title defense.

"There have been years when challengers were few and inadequate," he explained. "All right; why not meet the best man available, taking the best money offered? The champion is at least that far ahead on the financial situation and, from the physical side, he has one himself the best turn imaginable. Then, at a later date, when a real challenger turns up, the champion still can get the big purse he otherwise might have waited several years for, and naturally he would be a better man because of those intervening fights."

Thinking Far Ahead.

"It may be that I am thinking too far ahead. The man that Rickard selects may beat me and then all my plans would be knocked into a cocked hat. Yet I think the fact that I recognize danger in every opponent is in my favor; they, at least, won't be able to surprise me as so many champions have been surprised. In short, I am taking neither my opponents nor myself for granted.

"Retire? I suppose I shall when and if I last five years or more as champion. By that time, I suppose I'll have enough of boxing and, for all I know, boxing may have enough of me. I've found that the surest way to attain unpopularity is to win the heavyweight championship."

BASEBALL'S TWO RAREST FEATS — BY FEG MURRAY

Copyright, 1927, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

The two rarest feats in baseball are the perfect game and the triple play unassisted. Oddly enough there have been five of each in the history of the major leagues. Only five times in over 50 years has a pitcher sent 27 enemy batsmen back to the bench without one of them reaching first base or has an infielder retired three opponents on one play without receiving any help from a team-mate.

The five "no-hit, no-run no-player reaching first base" heroes listed in baseball's Hall of Fame are as follows: J. Lee Richmond, of Worcester; John M. Ward of Providence; Denton Tecumseh Young of Boston (A. L.); Adrian C. Joss of Cleveland and Charles C. Robertson of the Chicago White Sox. For a time George Washington Bradley of St. Louis was listed as the first of them all but it was since proved that he walked one man and that possibly another opponent reached first on an error.

It was a very curious thing that Richmond and Ward pitched their perfect games only five days apart. Richmond shut out Cleveland without a hit on June 12, 1880 while Ward's record was made against Buffalo on June 17. Over 24 years elapsed before "Cy" Young joined the Immortals by beating the Athletics 3 to 9 without letting one of them reach first on May 5, 1904. On October 2, 1908 Addie Joss of Cleveland pitched to only 27 of the Chicago White Sox and beat Ed Walsh 1 to 0. "No-hit Charley" Robertson, who is now with the Braves after a brief lapse into the minors whitewashed the hard-hitting Detroit club in several ways on April 30, 1922 in his second week in the majors. As Ethel Barrymore was wont to say "That's all there is, there isn't any more."

To return to that other rarity of the diamond the unassisted triple-play it must be said that some records notably "The Little Red Book" of Spalding's Athletic Library credit Paul Hines of Providence with making such a fielding play against Boston on May 8, 1878 but I leave that out because Ernest J. Lanigan in the "Baseball Cyclopedia" says that the late William M. Rankin investigated this performance and could find no proof of it. Those who have officially done this difficult stunt are as follows: Neal Ball of Cleveland, July 19, 1909 against the Boston Red Sox; William Wambsganss also of the Indians against Brooklyn in a world series game, October 10, 1920; Geo. Burns, Red Sox vs. Cleveland, September 14, 1923; Ernest K. Padgett Boston Braves vs. Phillies, second game October 6, 1923, (it was Padgett's second week in the majors) and Glenn Wright of the Pirates vs. St. Louis May 7, 1925.

It should be noted that Cleveland figures in three of these fielding classics and in one of the pitching performances.

Spring Football Training To Start At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., April 23.—With at least eleven lettermen in the fold, football equipment in preparation for the annual spring football training camp at Westminster college, will be issued by Graduate Manager McDonald and his student assistants, Saturday afternoon. The gong will sound at 3 p. m. Monday for the start of the first drill.

Never has Westminster had such a large group of letter-men. Coach "Dyke" Beede will have Captain Jim Lauder of Elizabeth, Jim McQuiston of Cochranton, Johnny Hall of Youngstown, and Wayne Philips of Meadville, as a nucleus for his backfield. The only missing figure will be "Red" Hostettler of Erie, husky full back, who dropped out of school at the end of the first semester. It will be a big job to fill his shoes as he was one of the most promising line buckers Westminster has had in years.

Assistant Coach John Lawther will again have charge of the line, and it is in this department especially that Westminster's hopes are strong. At the ends, Crowell of Sharon, Wagner of Akron, Furno of Elizabeth and Kelly of New Castle, will be available. Sweet of Erie, and Dombroski of Elizabeth, remain for the tackles with Ayers of Canonsburg, certain of being found at one of the guards. Smith of Youngstown, will likely be found at center. This means that only one position lacks a veteran. It is a guard berth made vacant by the graduation of Paul Montgomery of New Castle.

In addition to the letter-men, there are several lads who rated first string positions last fall but did not earn letters. Among these were Bowen of Erie, and Campbell of Pittsburgh, backs; McCullough of Butler, guard, and Del Smith of Youngstown, an end.

The training camp will continue for a week. It is the second year in succession that the U. P. school has held spring drills.

HALL of FAME

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Nominating CLARENCE DE MAR.

Because he enjoys running 25 or 26 miles while most folk use the auto to run around the corner.

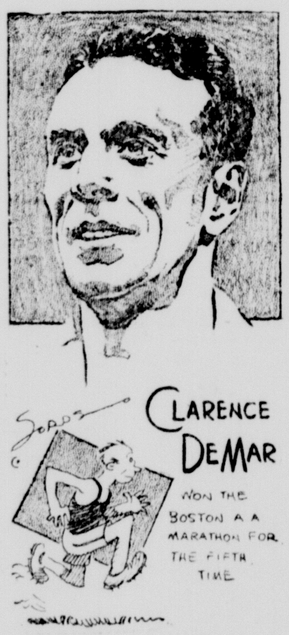

Because he has been runing that distance—the Marathon—for so long that it is a habit with him—like the daily paper to most of us.

Because he has won the blue ribbon marathan event in the U. S.—the Boston Marathon—so often that next year the sponsors plan to send out the entry blanks and then give Clarence the prize.

Because he won his first Boston event in 1911, repeated in just 11 years later—1922—and then to show that his comeback was permanent, repeated in 1923 and 1924.

Because he was so disappointed in finishing second in 1925 and third in 1926 that he went out and won it again the other day—just 16 years after his first victory.

And because he says he is just getting warmed up for a good run some day.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

It was an act of Providence—in the Eastern league—that gave the Boston Braves one of the pitchers who are lifting that team out of the rut, temporarily at least, and making it one of the best teams in the National league—in point of achievements to date.

For Foster Edwards, the rookie hurler, who has turned in a couple of impressive exhibitions at the writing, learned his stuff with Providence and it was that club which sent him to the big show.

He won 25 and lost but 8 games for the Eastern league outfit last season before the Braves lifted him up. Then, before the season closed he won two games for the Beantown team.

He started off the current season by outpitching Dazzy Vance, strikeout wizard of the Brooklyn Dodgers and letting the latter down with six hits. The next time up he had the Giants licked until the eighth when they put over two runs and tied the count. The Braves squeezed out a victory, however. Mogridge got credit for the victory but Edwards' pitching against the hard hitting Giants wasn't disappointing in the least.

* * *

Speaking of Dazzy Vance, the Brooklyn ace has shown little to date to warrant Manager Robinson placing much hope in him for the season. After losing to the Braves Vance tried his hand against the Phillies and old Jack Scott, discarded by the Giants, proceeded to baffle the Brooklyn batters while the lowly Phils socked Mr. Vance in the interim and all over the lot until he retired in the seventh.

To change the subject.

The New York fight situation has resolved itself into a delightful mess that should sicken everyone except the hometown yokels of that city of the sport.

The air and the papers are full of legal actions against promoters and fighters, rows between the boxing commission and promoters, managers and fighters; piffle, regarding this, that or the other thing, and whatnot.

The thinking fan has long since ceased to separate the wheat from the chaff—has given up trying to differentiate between the legitimate news and the hokum.

He is aware that much of the alleged legal and verbal banter is clear bunk, designed mainly to drum up the fight involved.

And in the meantime the world's heavyweight champion is getting $1,000 a minute between meals for a few one-minute rounds with stable mates.

Ho, hum!

The official act of the New York state boxing commission in barring Jack Delaney from fighting heavyweights while possessing the title and poundage of a light heavyweight cannot be taken seriously. Especially in view of the fact that the only light heavyweight battle in prospect for him is one with the ancient and honorable Mike McTigue.

The last time Mike fought it was a heavy, in the hope of climbing to the finals in Tex Rickard's heavyweight tournament, designed ostensibly to select an opponent for Gene Tunney.

Mr. McTigue got knocked on his rum-tum dum.

The last time Mr. Delaney fought it was as a heavy—in the same tournament—and he figuratively landed on the same spot.

Now Mr. Delaney is demoted so the two can fight—with the excuse that the light heavyweight title is at stake.

And in the meantime Mr. Delaney cannot upset Mr. Rickard's plans regarding the Spanish woodchopper, Paolina Uscudin.

Ho, hum!

The daily box score of the St. Louis Browns tells you more plainly than any jumble of words how George Sister is enjoying the relief from the managerial burdens. He may be drawing $10,000 less a season because of that relief but the chances are 17 to 1 that he will add enough years to his career to make up that balance—or most of it.

And he is living.

A year ago life was a torment to him. His waking hours were divided between worry over his team's playing and his own condition.

THREE STATES AIDING OHIO IN WIDE SEARCH FOR SLAYER SUSPECT

CLEVELAND, April 23—Authorities of West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Ohio pressed today their search for John Burbridge, for whom a warrant was issued yesterday naming him as the alleged slayer of John C. Compton, Jr., of Cleveland.

Compton's body was found several days ago in a cottage at Chagrin Falls. Mrs. Burbridge and her 14-year-old son are held as material witnesses. She is quoted by county officers as admitting that her husband had kicked Compton to death in a drunken brawl at the Burbridge home.

Mrs. Burbridge told police her husband might have gone to New Castle, Pa. Search was also extended to West Virginia and Kentucky when it was learned he formerly had lived in those states.

Mayor James Walker Of New York May Decline American League Offer

Offer New York City Mayor Job As American League President

Would Carry Salary Of $100,000 Per Year; Johnson To Retire

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Friends of James J. Waker, mayor of New York city, today expressed the belief that he would decline an offer of the presidency of the American league at a salary of $100,000 a year, reported to have been made by the league.

Although Mayor Walker insists that he has received no formal offer from the league rumors persisted today that the league magnates at a secret meeting yesterday decided to offer him the post.

The mayor's reply to all questions was:

"I have had no formal offer from the American league. In any event I would not discuss any offer until it had been made formally."

According to friends of the mayor he will not entertain such an offer until his present term ends on January 1, 1930. He is said to feel that his resignation at this time might result in the disruption of the political organization of Tammany hall.

Discussion of Mayor Walker in connection with the presidency of the league resulted from the return of Ban Johnson to his activities as head of the league, it was said. Following Johnson's controversy with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis the czar of baseball the league owners had believed that Johnson would "gracefully retire."

Judge Landis was in Baltimore today where he was expected to confer with Col, Jacob Rupert owner of the New York Yankees, President Griffith of the Washington club, President Quinn of the Red Sox and perhaps President Shibe of the Athletics.

Volley Ball Teams Arrange Series For New Castle Title

King Tut Team To Match Skill With Business Men In Tourney

The King Tut volley ball team will play the Business Men's team of this city a series of games for the volley ball championship of New Castle.

The two teams will play five games each night. The series will start on Monday night, April 25, at 8 o'clock, the second match will take place place Friday, April 29, and the third match, if necessary, will be played on Monday, May 2.

The games are free to the public. There is quite a rivalry between the two teams and the games will be hard fought, is the indication. The King Tut boys are not as young as they used to be, but they can still romp to some extent. The Business Men are confident of taking the ancient youngsters into camp.

New Castle Radiator Team To Bowl Johnstown For Large Loving Cup

Ralph Bolsinger of the National Radiator works announced today that the Radiator bowling team would play the Johnstown works team a match game here tonight at 7:30. Plans are under way to have Mayor William H. Dunlap roll the first ball.

The match tonight will end the series between New Castle and Johnstown. In 1925 the New Castle team met and defeated the boys from Johnstown, and also in 1926 the New Castle team was victorious. The winner of the match tonight will receive a handsome loving cup donated by Robert S. Waters, secretary of the National Radiator works.

The teams are picked from the leagues maintained by each plant. The teams to play tonight will be the best bets of the year as regards both teams, that is to say, the star bowlers from the two leagues will clash. The second teams from both plants will also bowl tonight.

The Johnstown boys are making the trip to this city in machines and will arrive here sometime this afternoon. The Johnstown contingent is said to be 50 strong.

The following lineups for tonight's matches were announced by Bolsinger as follows:

New Castle (first team)—Logue, Kennedy, Baskevfield, Hamilton, Hartman, McNickle and Lach.

Johnstown—George Gindelsperger, Roy Levergood, Guy Lindt, K. Shaffer, Roland Hazel and Ralph Patch.

New Castle's second team will be made up of T. Monath, Lutz, Raab, F. Santy, Varley and Calderwood. Johnstown's second team is as follows: Dave Reed, Gindelsperger, C. S. Long, William Weiss, Frank Jacobs, Carl Shoaff, Dick Hershberger.

Gooch's Double Defeats Reds

Scores Traynor With Third Run In Sixth Inning Of Game

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 23.—The Pirates defeated Cincinnati three to one yesterday which gave them four straight victories and seven of eight games this season. Snow fell during the game giving the field the appearance of a gridiron.

The cool weather did not apparently work any hardship on Lee Meadows, the be-spectacled hurler or Senor Adolfo Luque of Cuba. Both were effective but the Pirates seemed to co-ordinate their attack a little better than the Reds.

Hughey Critz made his debut yesterday and came close to putting the Reds in the fight in the sixth. With runners on third and first, two out and a run needed to tie the score Paul Waner caught his liner.

The Pirates started when Grantham walked and took third on L. Waner's single to right and when Cuyler flied out to Zitzman he came home with the first run.

Pipp started for Cincinnati in the fourth with a single to right and stole second. Bressler sacrificed and Walker scored Pipp with a single to left.

With the score tide Grantham, first up for the Pirates in the fifth tripled and scored on a passed ball, and in the sixth Traynor scored the third run after he singled to right and went to third on Rhyne's hit and scored on Gooch's double.

SORDS POINTS

Forty-Three Years Finds Connie A Pollyanna

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Connie Mack's Athletics picked once more by many critics to win the American league pennant have started out the season with a mad rush to the sub-cellar.

But the calmest person in baseball today perhaps is Connie Mack. A frown may cross his brow at times—in an unguarded moment. But that is the only outward indication of perturbation. He doesn't believe in becoming excited. He's baseball's Pollyanna. And I believe a fatalist in a way. He labors in the sublime faith that it is written in the stars that the pennant shall come to Philadelphia. And that diligent effort and a cool head will bring it.

This despite the fact that it has been 13 years in the coming—and isn't here yet.

This is Connie Mack's 43rd season in baseball. These two score and three years have failed to sour him on the game or life in general.

Scored Six Times.

He has won six pennants and three world's championships. Because of his mildness his reticent way, he has failed to draw the laudatory tributes of "Little Napoleon" "Peerless Leader," "Old Fox" and such titles as have been accorded John McGraw, Frank Chance, Clark Griffith and other outstanding figures of the baseball world. This despite the fact of his record achievements.

This despite the fact that with his old "White Elephants" he gave the American league its greatest team—and one of the outstanding aggregations in the game's history.

This despite the fact that he presented the baseball world with many of its greatest stars—Eddie Plank, Chief Bender, Eddie Collins of the newer generation for instance.

This despite the fact that no hint of scandal has ever touched his ball club.

This despite the fact that he had the courage to break up over night a championship ball club and start the weary task of rebuilding it.

Was Fifty-Two Then.

Connie started this rebuilding at the age of 52 when most business men have hopes of retiring. At 65 he is till at it.

For seven years his makeshift clubs wallowed at the botom of the American league cellar—without a word of complaint for Connie. For three years now he has seen the pennant within his grasp only to have his team "blow" and lose its grip.

His team finished seventh in 1922 sixth the next year, fifth in 1924, second in 1925 and third last season.

Those records would indicate that he has been building despite reverses.

Some say that Connie will retire at the end of this year regardless of the outcome of the race. They said that four years ago. Some day they'll have the right dope. When they do baseball will lose a great man.

Superior Court Upholds Venango County Ruling

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Legality of an agreement between officials of Venango county and the Allegheny county workhouse whereby Venango county prisoners may be sentenced to serve time in the Allegheny workhouse today stood approved by a decision of the state superior court, meeting here.

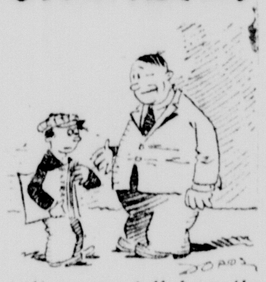

The superior court decision, listed on the docket as an appeal by Richard Jones and Ross Aiella, Venango county, upheld a lower court decision which held that sentences to the Allegheny county workhouse by Venango county courts were legal.

The Venango county sentence imposed on the two men was attacked on the ground the contract between officials of the two counties was not advertised as required by state law. The court held this was no bar to legality of the sentence imposed on the two men.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Battle of Murfreesboro.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

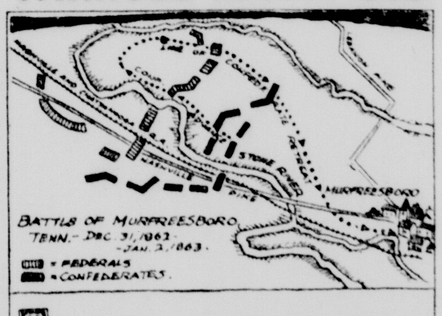

AFTER THE BATTLE OF PERRYVILLE, KY. (OCT. 8, 1862), GEN. BUELL WAS ORDERED TO PURSUE BRAGG'S RETREATING CONFEDERATE ARMY INTO TENNESSEE AND CONQUER THE EASTERN PART OF THE STATE. BUELL DID NOT BELIEVE SUCH AN EXPEDITION COULD BE SUPPORTED SO FAR FROM HIS BASE OF SUPPLIES AND MOVED HIS ARMY TO NASHVILLE. IN THE MEANTIME, BRAGG CAME MARCHING BACK WITH A FORCE OF 38,000 MEN AND TOOK A STRONG POSITION ON STONE RIVER NEAR MURFREESBORO.

ROSECRANS TOOK BUELL'S PLACE AND ON DEC. 26TH SET OUT FOR MURFREESBORO WITH 43,000 MEN. ON THE 31ST HE MET BRAGG IN A GREAT BATTLE ON STONE RIVER. BRAGG ATTACKED FIERCELY AND THE UNION RIGHT WING WAS DRIVEN BACK IN DISORDER. THOMAS'S CORPS IN THE CENTER STOUTLY STOOD ITS GROUND AND SAVED THE FEDERAL ARMY FROM DISASTER.

ROSECRANS SEEMED DEFEATED, BUT REFUSED TO RETREAT. ON JAN. 2, 1863, BRAGG AGAIN ATTACKED, BUT THIS TIME THE FEDERAL LINE HELD FIRMLY AND THE REPEATED CHARGES OF THE CONFEDERATES WERE REPELLED. BRAGG FELL BACK TO MURFREESBORO AND LATER RETIRED TO SHELBYVILLE, TULLAHOMA AND CHATTANOOGA.

THE CONFEDERATES CLAIMED THE VICTORY AS THEY HAD CAPTURED ONE-FIFTH OF ROSECRANS' ARTILLERY AND THE FEDERALS HAD SUSTAINED HEAVIER LOSSES. BRAGG, HOWEVER, HAD FAILED TO DRIVE OUT HIS OPPONENT AND TENNESSEE REMAINED IN THE GRIP OF THE UNION FORCES.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The railroad stocks were the centers of interest in an active and irregular short session of the stock market today. Price movements in the motor and specialty stocks were erratic, with the bulk of active shares moving downward in response to heavy week-end profit taking and short selling. The oils displayed considerable weakness, most of the well known independent oils sinking to new low prices.

Notwithstanding the unseasonable weather conditions, business conditions were generally favorable this week and the movement of goods in domestic trade was in large volume.

The rise in railroad stock prices was led by Delaware and Hudson, New York Central, Atchison and other of the high grade dividend shares which have been at the head of the rail list for the last two or three years. The so-called merger stocks were also well bought.

General Motors and Hudson moved upward a point or two in response to persistent buying. Dodge, Packard and Pierce Arrow were unable to rally.

Oil stocks were thrown overboard in hurried liquidations as conditions in the oil trade appeared to be more unsatisfactory than at any time this year. Extension of the gasoline price war to the Eastern markets was threatened as surplus oil continued to engulf the producers in all of the important oil fields. Marland, Phillips, Pure Oil, Skelly, Shell Union, Standard of California and California Petroleum bore the brunt of the selling, with the bulk of these stocks selling at the lowest prices since 1925.

United States Steel duplicated its record high price of 172¾ in the final period. Railroad stocks were slightly reactionary on profit taking, while oils continued weak on report of flush production in Seminole and West Texas, with new fields in perspective in the latter territory.

Delaware & Hudson convertible 5 per cents were the feature of the railroad bonds, advancing 5 points to 137½, in company with the rise of the common stock into which they are convertible. Erie convertible 4s of series D sold higher.

Bonds of the steel and copper companies were steady under a reduced volume of trading. Public utility bonds were firm, with good buying of the electric light and power issues, while local tractions were inactive and featureless.

Ammunition Train Veterans Organize

C. A. Leslie Is Named As Commander Of New Veteran's Body

Members of the 308th ammunition train who had not met each other since they fought together in the Meuse sector and the Argonne woods, met again last night at the Veterans of Foreign Wars home and formed a permanent organization to be known as the 308th Ammunition Train of Lawrence county.

The meeting, which was called to order by Clarence A. Leslie, was held in the Veterans of Foreign Wars home on Neshannock avenue. After the plans and purposes of the organization were discussed and explained an election was held.

The officers elected are: Commander, Clarence A. Leslie; secretary and treasurer, Ivor V. Davis; committee on by-laws, P. P. Pitzer, Thomas McNichols and C. L. Bishoff; membership committee, A. Masterson, Howard W. Dean and C. A. Lombardo.

Very interesting talks were given by A. Masterson and Thomas McNichols on the advantages to be gained by belonging to the new organization.

The next meeting of the new organization is announced to be held Wednesday, May 4, at 8 p. m. in the Veterans of Foreign Wars home on Neshannock avenue.

It is urged that all men who served in the 308th get in touch with the new organization as soon as possible by calling the secretary, Ivor Davis, whose telephone number is 537.

The annual convention of the 308th ammunition train will be held this fall on Armistice day November 11, at Pittsburgh. It is announced that Col. Thomas Fitzgerald, who is now superintendent of the Pittsburgh Railways company, will speak at this convention.

Scranton Treasurer Awaits Sentence In Embezzlement Case

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Pa., April 23.—Fred Zitzelman, treasurer of the Scranton Fireman's Pension Fund for sixteen years, today awaited trial in the May term of the county court, having been indicted by the Lackawanna county grand jury on four counts of embezzlement and one of fraudulent conversion. A shortage of $21,000 was found in Zitzelman's accounts recently, according to auditors, who said that the shortage had dated back more than ten years.

Zitzelman was arrested several weeks ago and held under $5,000 pending action of the grand jury.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The railroad and the motor stocks resumed the leadership of the forward movement in stock prices this week.

From the money market standpoint, the most important event of the week was the unexpected marking down of the Bank of England discount rate to 4½ per cent, which will doubtless have a wider significance than its effect on the English markets. In view of the close cooperation maintained by the English and American bankers, it was expected that the directors of the Reserve Bank of New York would reduce its re-discount rate Thursday. No change was made, but in all probability the reduction will not be long delayed. In any event, the lower British rate will have the effect of arresting the flow of American money into the London market.

Uneven Prices

Emphasis was placed on the very uneven course of stock prices over the past year or so, and many of the Wall Street experts attempted to show that what has probably been considered as a bull market is in reality a bear market. U. S. Steel and a few of the railroad stocks, the market as a whole had reacted in the period under review and the average price of 800 stocks is down about eight to ten points, according to compilations presented by the stock experts.

It is not a difficult matter to corroborate these facts. Thousands of small and large speculators have lost money in the stock market and not through the process of selling short. Those who have patiently held the oil stocks, the coppers and numerous industrial, railroad and specialty stocks have seen their holdings shrink in value, while a small number of the market favorites, with or without pool support, have been bursting through the ceiling. The action of the market has in this period emphasized the fact that, regardless of price gains, the best is the best to buy, for either investment or speculative purposes. Stocks of the financially strong and well operated corporations have doubled and tripled in value, while their speculative brethern have been used as speculative footballs by the professionals.

Developments Confused

Financial and industrial developments of the week were as confused and irregular as the movement of stock prices. Corporation reports of first quarter operations and earnings were almost uniformly favorable, not excepting the oil companies, from which little was expected. The beginning of the summer let-down in steel, building, and other industries made itself apparent to some observers, though the trend was by no means uniform.

A disastrous flooding of the Mississippi Valley, in addition to causing considerable discomforts, destroyed property and interfered seriously with the growing crops. Cotton prices spurted as a natural result. The oil markets were further handicapped by additional price cuts in crude and refined petroleum, resulting from the overproduction of crude oil, which prominent oil men now declare is absolutely beyond their control.

The Japanese Yen declined sharply as the result of the forced closing of the banks and the embarrassment of large exporting firms there, while the Italian Lira advanced on heavy buying to the highest levels since 1923. Commodity markets as a whole were steady, with a tendency to slightly lower price ranges.

Hewitt Trial Is Postponed Until Monday Morning

(International News Service)
JEFFERSON, O., April 23.—With the completion of evidence in the Floyd Hewitt murder case late Friday, the trial was in recess today until Monday at 9 a. m. when arguments will begin. Each side has been allotted four hours for argument.

Concluding evidence offered by the state in rebuttal was aimed at the alibi which relatives and other defense witnesses sought to establish for the 16-year-old boy, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Fred Brown and her five-year-old son at Conneaut the night of February 14.

The youthful defendant today told county jail officials he felt sure he would be saved from the electric chair. He appeared calm and unworried as the time nears for the jury to begin deliberation of his fate.

Old Teachers Given Chance To Join The Retirement System

County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling has received a communication from the school employees retirement board stating that Governor Fisher has approved an amendment to the school employees retirement law. This amendment gives present employes who had failed to join the retirement system another chance to join by extending the time for making written applications to July 1, 1928. It is estimated that fewer than 100 had failed to make application previous to the expiration of the former time limit, but among them several teachers of many years' experience, who insisted that they had never been informed of the former time limit for making application. Anyone who now joins can, by paying up back contributions for all service rendered since July 1, 1919, receive credit for all prior service.

(International News Service)

Continue Probe Into Bribery Of Libel Suit Juror

Sapiro Attorneys Offer Simple Explanation Of Woman Juror Bribe

MEET SOON TO SET DATE FOR NEW TRIAL

(International News Service)

DETROIT, April 23.—Although attorneys for Aaron Sapiro produced a simple explanation of the alleged bribery plot in the million-dollar Ford-Sapiro libel suit, Department of Justice agents continued their investigation into the charges hurled at Mrs. Cora Hoffman, woman juror in the first trial by counsel for Henry Ford.

The explanation offered by William H. Gallagher, Sapiro counsel, was based upon a statement by Robert Schomberger, Detroit, realtor, who said the "bribery plot" was merely a real estate deal. Schomberger declared J. "Kid" Miller, charged with making an improper offer to Mrs. Hoffman, had merely conferred with her over a deal involving the sale of an apartment house. Schomberger said he sold the building to the Hoffmans and that Miller had acted as his agent.

The conferences between Mrs. Hoffman and Miller, Schomberger said, related to an effort to place a mortgage on another property owned by the Hoffmans so they could use the money to pay a note due the realtor. He said there was no mystery about these conferences, which were cited as one of the reasons for a mistrial in the case.

In a number of affidavits Ford detectives charged Miller was a "go-between" who offered to "make Mrs. Hoffman thousands of dollars" if she took luncheon with him. These affidavits were the basis of the Ford motion for a mistrial.

There was no indication today when a new trial will be started, the opposing counsel, however, will meet here a week from today to determine a date.

Weather Man In Hawaii Uses Snow Shoes In His Work

(International News Service)

HONOLULU, April 23.—While visitors from the mainland were enjoying the warm waters of Waikiki last month, one of Hawaii's foresters was tramping over the snowy fields of Mauna Kea, island of Hawaii, planting the seed of mainland pine, fir and hemlock, in an effort to start a forest on the upper slopes of this giant mountain, which towers 13,825 feet above sea level.

The forester, L. W. Bryan, used snowshoes to cover some portions of the mountains and his plantings were made around the 13,000-foot level. During the past winter, while the tropic shores of Hawaii island have been getting goodly portions of rain, the summits of Mauna Kea and its sister mountain, Mauna Loa, have lain deep in snow.

Old residents of the island say that the excessive fall of snow is the result of an attempted "come back" by Haupoli, the snow goddess, following the fiery display last April of Madam Pele, goddess of the volcano.

Plan To Destroy Big Ale Shipment In Erie Storehouse

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 23.—Tired of playing hide-and-seek with government officials, and to escape an enormous storage bill, Amos Vandeveer and David Marr, Canadians, are going to have 2,587 bottles of Canadian ale now in an Erie, Pa., storeroom, destroyed.

The ale was legally restored to them by Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson here after it was seized by dry agents at Erie, who alleged it was being smuggled into the county, but prohibition administrator declared the ale was smuggled property and that if it were taken from the warehouse Vandeveer and Marr would be arrested for being in possession of smuggled goods.

Finally the two men agreed to have the ale destroyed to save storage charges, and an order signed by Judge Thomson yesterday put a legal end to the shipment.

ABE MARTIN — On Readin' th' Human Hand

ONE O' TH' MANY EMBARRASSMENTS THAT KIN BE AVERTED BY STUDYIN' TH' HUMAN HAND

Miss Fawn Lippincut read a paper on "Readin' th' Human Hand", before th' Skunk Ridge Club Thursday afternoon, follerin' th' salmon croquettes. "Ther's so much character in th' human hand that ther's absolutely no excuse fer gittin' stung these days if we'll but study hand readin'. Ther's a story in ever' hand. Th' thumb, th' fingers, an' th' very nails an' bumps, all unite t' indicate our characters, an' no amount o' stallin' 'll keep us from bein' seen in our true light once our hand is exposed t' one who kin read it. A short thin thumb shows that we'll fail at all life's undertakin's, even holdin' a courthouse job. A short thick thumb denotes that we don't give nothin' away unless we've got too much of it. It's classed by hand readers as th' bologna thumb, an' is common among utility magnates an' bankers. A fat, thick, over-stuffed hand invariably indicates an aversion t' plowin'. Finger nails are mostly concerned with th' health o' th' individual, although they sometimes reflect th' character of his occupation. Round, turtle back, smoky nails are a sign that th' liver is closed t' traffic, clogged an' out o' commission. Flat nails showin' well defined half moons indicate lard on th' heart. Closely nibbled, turquoise nails denote a high strung, nervous, flary temperament. Extry long middle fingers indicate an abnormal fondness fer pool. Big, long, heavily jointed fingers are indicative o' faulty heart plumbin' an' overtaxed pipe lines leadin' t' th' lobes o' th' lungs. Th' round, or horseshoe hand, fat or flat, is a never failin' sign o' egotism, an' can only be fitted in th' cadet style o' glove. Th' thumb with a round knobbed phalange, on which th' nail is attached, readily reveals an oversize liver, due t' an' excessive use o' condiments. Any kind o' a hand denotes either neuritis or acidity brought on by tonsils, ole out-o'-date back teeth, an' drug store salads. A gnarled, rugged hand, heavily embossed with veins, denotes a gradual breakin' down o' th' system, due t' worryin' over how th' farm taxes are t' be paid. A glossy, red hand with blue knuckles an' cracked nails is allus sure t' belong t' an ideal housekeeper, an' denote an energy out o' all proportion t' th' strength o' th' possessor. A soft, delicate, well-groomed hand indicates an unnatural languor brought on by too light a diet o' cabbage, carrots, an' baked p'tater skins. We kin often save money by knowin' how t' read th' hand. Many a long walk home, an' embarrassments o' ever' sort, may be averted by bein' able t' note at a glance any ulterior motives that may lurk behind irresistible personalities. Many o' th' ailments that are mowin' us down in th' prime o' life may be caught in ther incipiency, fer they show up in th' hand at an early age. It's possible t' look at th' hand an' know when t' cut out white bread an' take up prunes, or forego pork an' resort t' kale an' bran. A soft, wet, quilted hand reflects a general worthlessness combined with a pleasin' address, an' an almost consumin' mania fer holdin' public office."

DANCE STOPPED AFTER 21 HOURS

Ten Out Of 350 Couples Had Stayed In Los Angeles Marathon

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—An endurance dance marathon, which started late Thursday in an elimination contest for a $1,000 prize was halted Friday by city health authorities with ten couples remaining.

After contestants had narrowed from 350 starting couples, authorities feared permanent injury to the girl participants.

Twenty-one hours previously the dancers started at a Venice Beach ball room from which they continued to dance over boulevard pavements for 15 miles into a city dance hall.

Orchestras on motor trucks furnished music.

During the forenoon several girls collapsed. One male dancer also fell in his tracks suffering from appendicitis.

The $1,000 prize was divided evenly among the remaining dancers.

DO YOU KNOW?

That a Ford car weighs several hundred pounds less than an ordinary car with equal power and carrying capacity. This reduces wear and tear on tires. The simplicity of the engine means economy in manufacture and low upkeep and repair costs. The total number of all parts in the Ford car retail at approximately 15% more than the price of the complete chassis, and official figures show less than 15% per car for parts replaced under factory guarantee of defective parts.

Through the efforts of Dr. S. J. Dickey, county medical director, this day will be featured all over the county and Grove City is arranging to take an active part in the observance. The big objective of the day will be to feature in the work all pupils who are known as five-point children, meaning perfect vision, good teeth, good throat and adequate weight. Each child with these qualifications will be presented with a blue card. The number receiving these cards in each school will be reported to the board of health at Harrisburg and to the Mercer county health board.
